

This has been a busy month, as ever. We've seen a staff retirement and our new employees successfully pass their probationary periods. We had our first and last (I hope) snow closings of the season. Procedures for implementing our Code of Conduct policy with respect to bedbugs were created and used.

We are signing up staff for training opportunities this spring. I will not be attending my annual Evergreen conference this year since the timing of the director search and my duties here will both conflict. I may look for some training later in the year since there is funding in the budget for this.

Committee meetings were held to discuss recommendations from our lawyers on patron access and children's issues. Reports in the discussion section of our March meeting will detail all these proposals.
