The air conditioner that cools the server room has had some errors in the past year that our HVAC Contractor, Aker, has been tending to. Unfortunately, after 16 years of running 24/7, the patches aren't holding and the recommendation is to replace. This is understandable, since the amount of time it runs is probably the equivalent 3-4 times as long if it were in a residence.

The quote to replace with a new unit is $6,904, which is actually cheaper than when the original was installed in 2007 (in actual dollars and even more so when adjusted for inflation).

I recommend and request that we proceed with this quote, to be paid from our operating budget.
