

Continuing on with policy updates, let us move on to a recommendation for a Programming Policy.

We've never had a programming policy before, but this draft is modeled on our Materials Selection Policy, so you'll see similarities. We have the similar audiences in mind, too: library staff, the public at large, and potential presenters. The goal is for the public to be informed as to the how and why of what programs are selected, while providing selectors with guidance and empowering them to make effective decisions.

All library staff involved in creating programming have had an opportunity to critique this draft, as has the Public Services Committee.

Submitted by John Rucker