PREFACE.

In presenting to the public our first Directory of Coldwater, we do so believing that it will be found more complete and reliable than any previous Directory. Notwithstanding the fact that omissions and errors may be discovered, we claim for the work an accuracy and neatness seldom exhibited in a book of its kind.

We have aimed to make our work a fit representative of the public spirit and importance of the city of Coldwater, and an accurate and complete guide to all public places, business locations and private residences of the inhabitants of the city.

The Business Directory contains a classified list of all trades, professions, and pursuits in the city, alphabetically arranged, thus exhibiting at a glance the special business of each citizen.

The Street Directory is a new feature, and will be found an advantageous appendix to the work.

The Miscellaneous Department contains much information, useful to both citizens and strangers.

While thanking the business community for the generous patronage given us, and the "Press" for their favorable notices, we desire to express our intention of issuing the Coldwater City Directory biennially, with the promise that it shall be as complete as it is possible to make it.

COLDWATER.

The city of Coldwater, the County Seat of Branch County, is one of the largest cities of Southern Michigan, having a population according to the latest census of 4,320 inhabitants. It is situated on the L. S. & M. S. R. R., and is distant from Detroit 132 miles by rail, though only about 100 miles across the country in a south-westerly direction.

The city derives its name from the Indian word Chuck-ser-ya-bish, signifying coldwater, and which was applied by the Indians to the beautiful group of lakes among which Coldwater is located, and on a connecting stream between two of which it stands. This stream is somewhat incorrectly termed Coldwater River.

These lakes and the water courses connecting them have their rise in Indiana, and after flowing through a considerable part of Michigan finally empty their waters into the St. Joseph River. The first white man who settled within the limits of the present City of Coldwater was Mr. Hugh Campbell, who emigrated thither from New York in 1829. At an early day the great highway from Detroit to Chicago was laid out by the Government and passed through Coldwater, tending with the fine agricultural country surrounding it, to the rapid growth and prosperity of the place. In 1832 the town was laid out under the name of Lyons, which was in the following year changed to its present title of Coldwater. The County Seat was originally located at Branch, but its removal to Coldwater, and the completion of the Michigan Southern Railroad to this point in 1851, both contributed largely to its growth. The Village of Coldwater was incorporated Feb. 29, 1837, and the charter of the city was obtained in 1861.

The city lies in the midst of a rich prairie country, the streets run nearly at right angles and are broad and adorned by handsome trees, many of the residences are stately, and all are comfortable and home-like, and everything bespeaks a population intelligent and prosperous. The city is lighted with gas, has several good hotels, and a spacious public hall. The religious denominations include the Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopal, Wesleyan Methodist, German Lutheran and Roman Catholic.

The Schools are numerous and several are very large and handsome structures. Indeed, the Central School is one of the finest educational buildings in this section of the State.

New County Buildings are much needed, however.

The city has been built up by the trade coming from the fine farming section about it. The land is rich and the farmers generally wealthy. They raise wheat and corn largely, and Branch county is known throughout the Union for the number of excellent horses it produces. Wool is also marketed at Coldwater to a considerable extent.

The Mansfield, Coldwater and Lake Michigan Railroad is now in process of construction.

Among the principal manufacturing establishments are the following: The linseed oil factory, a wheel-barrow factory, wagon and carriage factories, planing mills, furniture factories, a foundry and machine shop, three flouring mills, stave and heading factory, several cooper shops, and several minor establishments.

There are two National banks and one Exchange bank. The new State Public school for dependent children, a large and elegant pile of buildings, occupies a commanding site on the northeast side of the city with extensive grounds, still new, but requiring only time and means to render them very beautiful, nature having supplied all the rest.

In the western part of the city is Oak Wood Cemetery, on the south side of a beautiful lake, embracing several acres and possessing all the features which would indicate that here too nature might have intended to lavish the peculiar charms usually sought for in the rural "silent city of the dead."

The Lewis Art Gallery here is one of the largest collections of paintings to be found in America. It includes copies of the most famous European pictures, a large part of the noted Thompson collection from Boston, a number of paintings by famous American artists, and a very large collection of portraits by eminent painters. A building has been erected for this noble collection by the owner, Mr. Henry C. Lewis, and they are generously exhibited to all who desire to see them. The presence of such a body of paintings cannot fail to have an elevating influence upon the art taste of the people of Michigan.

WARDS, THEIR LOCATION AND BOUNDARIES.

The city is divided into four Wards, viz.: First, Second, Third, and Fourth, the First consisting of the southeast, the Second the northeast, the Third the northwest, and the Fourth the southwest portions of the city.

The following streets make the division into wards, and form their inner boundaries:

The First Ward is separated from the Second by East Chicago st, east, southeast to city limits, forming the north boundary of the First, and the south boundary of the Second Wards;

The Second from the Third by Grand st, southeast to Division; thence Division south to Chicago, forming the west boundary of the Second, and the east boundary of the Third Wards; The Third from the Fourth by West Chicago st, west northwest to city limits, forming the south boundary of the Third, and the north boundary of the Fourth Wards.

The Fourth from the First, by South Monroe st, to the south side of the L. S. & M. S. R. R., thence along the road west to Clay, thence Clay south to south city limits, forming the west boundary of the First, and the east boundary of the Second Wards.

(Wards.)

The First consists of all that portion of the city lying south of the boundary between the First and Second Wards, and east of the boundary between the First and Fourth Wards.

The Second Ward consists of all that portion of the city lying north of the boundary between the First and Second Wards, and east of the boundary between the Second and Third Wards.

The Third Ward consists of all that portion of the city lying west of the boundary between the Second and Third Wards, and north of the boundary between the Third and Fourth Wards.

The Fourth Ward consists of all that portion of the city lying south of the boundary between the Third and Fourth Wards, and west of the boundary between the First and Fourth Wards.

QUINCY,

A thriving, incorporated village, of about 1,500 inhabitants, in Quincy township, Branch county. It is on the old Chicago turnpike, just 100 miles southwest of Detroit. It is also on the L. S. & M. S. R. R., 83 miles from Toledo, and 161 from Chicago. It is 6 miles east of Coldwater. It was first settled in 1833, by John Cornish, and was incorporated in 1858. It is situated in a good farming country, well supplied with timber, and possessing an excellent soil. Grain, grass, fruit, potatoes, live-stock and wool are the chief agricultural productions, and farm produce, stock, lumber, and staves, form the principal articles of export. Quincy has a large flouring mill, a stave and heading factory, a foundry, a newspaper—the Times, (Weekly,)—and a number of stores and mechanics' shops; also three hotels. It is, also, in common with other Michigan villages, well supplied with churches and schools. The U. S. Express and W. U. Telegraph Co.'s have offices here.

UNION CITY.

A thriving incorporated village on the Air Line division M. C. R. R., 41 miles west of Jackson and 62 miles east of Niles. It is in Union township, Branch county, 13 miles north-west of Coldwater, near the northern line of the county. It is situated at the junction of the Coldwater with the St. Joseph river, in a beautiful and well improved region of country, and has a valuable water-power. It contains 2 flouring mills, a saw mill, a foundry and machine shop, a planing mill, and several minor manufactories and machine shops. It also has 3 hotels, 2 national banks, and 1 newspaper, (the Union City Register,) The American Express and the Western Union Telegraph companies have offices here. There is a daily stage two and from Coldwater, and also the Coldwater and Athens stage line. Iron ore exists in the vicinity, and at an early day a blast furnace was established here for its reduction, but the discovery of the purer ores of Lake Superior about this time made the business unprofitable and it was abandoned. The village contains a population of about 1,800. It is well supplied with schools and churches.

BRONSON.

Also called Bronson's Prairie, an incorporated village of 800 inhabitants; on L. S. & M. S. R. R., in the southern part of Branch county. It is distant from Detroit 140 miles, from Toledo 90 miles, from Coldwater (west) 11 miles, from Chicago 143 miles. The country in the vicinity consists of white oak and bur oak openings with small prairies interspersed. The usual grains are cultivated. Staves, and broom and fork handles are extensively manufactured. The Western Union Telegraph and the Western Union Express maintain offices here. Bronson was settled in 1830. Carl W. Albertson, Postmaster.

PREFACE.

In presenting to the public our first Directory of Hillsdale, we do so believing that it will be found more complete and reliable than any previous Directory. Notwithstanding the fact that omissions and errors may be discovered, we claim for the work an accuracy and neatness seldom exhibited in a book of its kind.

We have aimed to make our work a fit representative of the public spirit and importance of the city of Hillsdale, and an accurate and complete guide to all public places, business locations and private residences of the inhabitants of the city.

The Business Directory contains a classified list of all trades, professions, and pursuits in the city, alphabetically arranged, thus exhibiting at a glance the special business of each citizen.

The Street Directory is a new feature, and will be found an advantageous appendix to the work.

The Miscellaneous Department contains much information, useful to both citizens and strangers.

While thanking the business community for the generous patronage given us, and the "Press" for their favorable notices, we desire to express our intention of issuing the Hillsdale City Directory biennially, with the promise that it shall be as complete as it is possible to make it.

THE PUBLISHERS.

Among the manufactories of the place is a chair factory which employs 300 workmen, two steam flouring mills, two foundries and machine shops. It also has two National Banks and three Hotels.

The first settlement was made here in 1832. In 1843 the Michigan Southern Railroad was completed to this point, which gave an impetus to business and laid the foundation for Hillsdale's present prosperity. It was incorporated a city in 1869, and its second railroad was completed from Ypsilanti in February, 1871. Hillsdale is 66 miles from Toledo, 91 from Detroit, and 177 from Chicago.

Among the contributors of the field is a state leader which requires 100 workers, one more than any, one female and another day. It also has an National Medical Care Board.

The first national research law is 1951 by 1947 the Medical Research National Commission in the year, with a new system to be introduced and the American Medical Association's program. It was approved 4 days in 1951 and is a small national law which had been passed in 1950. It is the only law which has been passed in the House, and it is the only

JONESVILLE.

The village of Jonesville is situated on the L. S. & M. S. R. R., in Hillsdale county, and is distant from Detroit, by this road, 114 miles. A railway also runs from here, south to Fort Wayne, and north to Jackson, known as the Fort Wayne, Jackson and Saginaw R. R., and by this route and the Michigan Central, Jonesville is distant from Detroit only about 100 miles. It lies in the midst of a fine farming country, and has long possessed an excellent trade, derived primarily from prosperous agriculturists.

ITS EARLY SETTLEMENT.

Jonesville has now a population of nearly 2,500, and is one of the most thriving and prosperous cities in Southern Michigan. It was settled some 40 years ago, and, among the earliest inhabitants, were Ransom Gardner, who was there in 1835, J. G. Gardner, who was there in 1837, Harvey J. Olds, who was there 44 years ago, Beniah Jones, who was postmaster, and from whom the town was named, Geo. C. Munro, and others.

The city lies on the great turnpike road between Toledo and Chicago, and the Michigan Southern Railroad was completed thither at an early day, so that the town, surrounded by a good section of country, naturally flourished and grew strong. It was originally the county-seat of Hillsdale county, but the city of Hillsdale subsequently obtained this honor, being considerably nearer the centre of the county.

BUILDINGS, TRADE AND MANUFACTURES.

It now possesses 4 churches; Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist, and Episcopalian, and also has fine public school buildings.

Among the chief productions of the country in the vicinity, are wheat, corn, oats, and potatoes, and it is also a fine stock-raising section. Among the principal manufacturing enterprises now carried on here, is the woolen factory of Horace R. Gardner & Co.. It was originally established, in 1852, by a stock company, composed mainly of gentlemen residing in Jonesville. In 1857, Mr. H. R. Gardner became largely interested in it, and an addition was built in 1860. In 1866, the factory was totally destroyed by fire, but it was rebuilt in the same year, as it now stands, five stories high, and operated by steam power. In 1858, Ransom Gardner had become interested in the enterprise, and it is now controlled by H. R. and Ransom Gardner, entirely. The factory now makes cassimeres a specialty, and sells them throughout Michigan, in Chicago, and, to some extent, in Northern Indiana, and Ohio.

The cotton factory, now in full operation, was established in 1872, under the incorporated name of Jonesville Cotton Manufacturing Company, E. O. Grosvenor, President; Geo. C. Monro, Secretary; J. S.

Lewis, Treasurer; and J. M. Mumford, General Agent and Superintendent.

The factory is 60x110 feet in size; it is five stories in height, and can be supplied with over 100 looms whenever it is deemed necessary. The unexcelled standard sheeting manufactured by this company is of a uniform quality, and has a peculiar twist, which renders it firm and yet soft, being easily washed, and very durable. This factory has all the latest modern improved machinery.

The St. Joseph River, running through the city, has always furnished an excellent water-power, which has been made use of from the earliest settlement of the place. Several flouring mills have, at different times, been in existence upon the river, and it furnishes power for several now. There are saw-mills, wagon and carriage factories, banks, and various branches of merchandizing. The citizens generally own their places, and the whole town is characterized by enterprise, intelligence, and business success. The private streets are pleasant, and there is evidently much of refinement at Jonesville, as well as business.

READING.

A village of about 1,100 inhabitants, in the township of Reading, Hillsdale county. It is on the Fort Wayne, Jackson & Saginaw Railroad, 11 miles south of Jonesville, and 10 miles southwest of Hillsdale. It is in an excellent farming country, with an abundance of timber. The location has been settled since 1835, but the village dates only from 1855. It contains an extensive cheese factory, a flouring mill, a stove factory, a sash, door, and blind factory, two pump factories, two hotels, and a number of stores and mechanics' shops, with a proper representation of schools and churches. It has also a weekly newspaper, Rough Notes. The American Union Express Co. have an office here, and there is also a daily mail; L. S. Parmelee, postmaster.
