We need to have people

People are strange, when they are strangers; people seem wicked when you're alone.

How often we have all heard "I could get along without people," and of course we probably all know that this would be a sad thing to experience.

Without people you are nothing; you merely exist. With people you are somebody—a John, a Bill, or a Mary. People are wherever you go, tall, short, black, and white. They teach you, they serve you, they laugh with you and they cry with you. The world would ring with sounds of silence if there were not any people.

When you're a stranger, faces come out in the rain, and no one remembers your name.

It's not often that we hear someone say, "Gee, this has been a swell year!" Yet we all know the feeling is there. In every student there is an accomplished feeling of taking the bad with the good and of mixing work with play.

The school plays, the games, the dances, and homecoming are only a few of the events that have made this year a memorable one. In addition to school activities, students have found that parties, Sunday afternoon get togethers, and tooling the Mo have livened up the school year atmosphere.

Soiled saddle shoes are a symbol of our high school days. At first the shoes were clean and shiney, just as we were eager and bright to begin our freshman and sophomore years. The soles of the shoes were slippery, and it was easy to fall. One had to be extra careful and to work hard to stay on his feet.

The shoes, like us, have covered many miles, each one a milestone of our lives. We have encountered the bad, the challenging, and survived with only scrapes and traces of soil. The soles are wearing thin, and we are nearing the end of this school year. These shoes, even though grubby and well used, will carry us to receive our diplomas and then to meet the real challenges of our lives.

To Know Them Is To Respect Them

Muriel Wigent — Executive Secretary

Assistant Superintendent — Alfred Cyne

The yearbook staff did a little research into the past of our new superintendent, and we found that he used to be a mailman. That's why whether rain, sleet, snow, hail, or floods, the school must go on . . . Mr. Olmsted has done what is felt by the community, the teachers and the students to be a superb job in running and organizing our school system to make it more effective in its purpose.

Mr. Luce, new this year at CHS, has come to us with many ideas and improvements which he feels we all are to benefit from in the future years. His goal is to build up and or replenish the pride of CHS to the point where it should be for a school of its size, calibre, and talent. Mr. Drago's job as assistant principal isn't glorious, and he wouldn't win a student popularity poll, but he has done an excellent job in relating school policy to the every day circumstances.

Office, Library Are 'Havens of Answers'

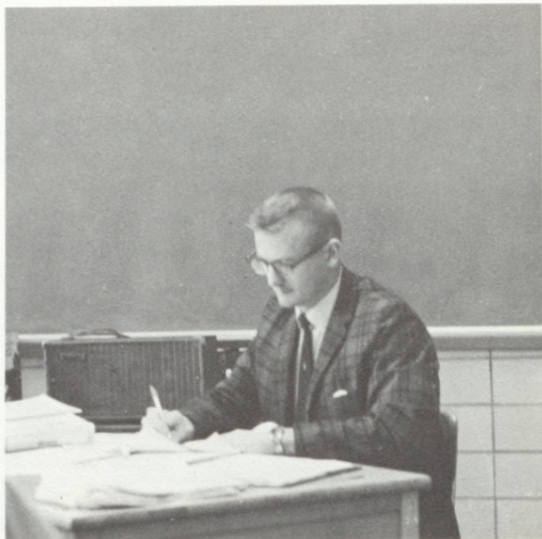

The school secretaries must be given special recognition for their efficient supervision and maintenance of the high school office. Their outstanding devotion has proven invaluable as they take on the daily routine of typing the daily bulletin, answering numerous questions from students, faculty, and misinformed parents.

The library is different things to different people. For some the library has long been a retreat for lonely thoughts.

For others the library is a lounge for conversing with old friends and finding new ones.

And for some, the library is a research study atmosphere, providing building blocks for the future in pages of books. And as each leaf of the book is turned another word is written and a future is planned.

Students Travel Through

RIGHT: Mr. Boonstra is a new member of the C.H.S. faculty. BELOW: Coach Schrojhaar studies each sentence of a composition as carefully as he studies each maneuver of a football play.

The Stages of Literature

"All the world's a stage and the people are merely players" — William Shakespeare.

English students at C.H.S. take on the role of players as they are swept into the exciting era of numerous literary figures. In their sophomore year, students study the gallantry of Julius Caesar, the unbelievable patience of Job, and the talent of Omar Khayyam. As juniors, students travel through the lives of great novelists such as Ernest Hemingway, John Steinbeck, and Sherwood Anderson. In their senior year, students are confronted with the great works of William Shakespeare, and find themselves reliving the fascinating times of the Elizabethan period.

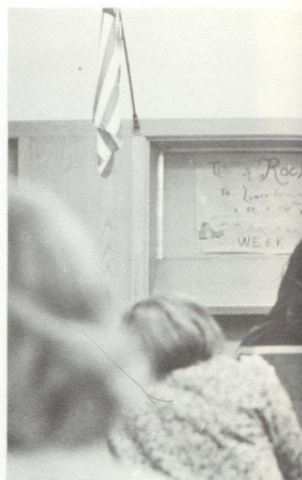

C.H.S. English is indeed a challenge, but the knowledge one derives from it becomes of vital importance as the years progress.

Language Gives Insight Into Foreign Countries

"Aber was kann ich sagen?" Students taking German I or II know this phrase well. With Detlef Olsen as the instructor, the German language comes alive as students learn the language and customs of the Germanic peoples of Europe.

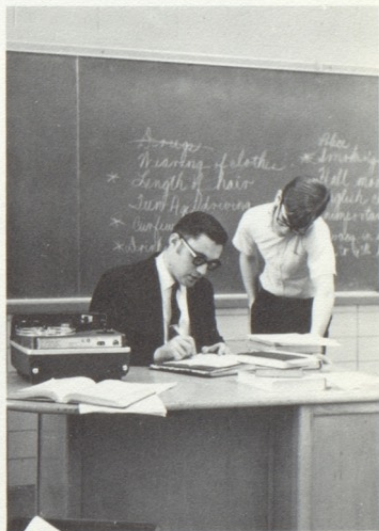

"Cerran sus masas, por favor." And so ends another Spanish class with Monty Parker. Spanish I, II, and III are all supplemented with films, guest speakers, and lectures, which help Spanish students understand the Spanish-speaking people of the world.

Mr. Parker prepares a future lesson for his unsuspecting students.

Today's Youth Creates

Participating in mock elections, going to watch Richard Nixon deliver a campaign speech and having the classroom filled with CBS cameras are all a part of learning history and government at CHS.

Students study from current events publications, along with their history text, keeping up with the new as well as the old. Mr. Keeslar's varied collections as well as his robust enthusiasm for campaigns have caused many students to take more interest in government at both local and national levels.

History classes discuss topics openly. Students wonder why Israel and Egypt cannot get along, why studying the past will help make a better future, and even why the U.S. is involved in the war in Viet Nam.

Nobody can understand all the "whys", but we are trying. And that is what is important: To try and understand the world in which we live.

Science Tests Student's Knowledge

Keeping up with our rapidly changing scientific world doesn't always mean knowing the latest formula. Science consists of the desire to probe, inquire, and explore. Chemistry and physics students can be seen working after school on puzzling experiments, observing as the magic of science unfolds before them. Working with lab partners, they learn the art of intense interaction under scientific discipline.

Biology students begin the year apprehensive about dissecting frogs but are relieved to find that the class is not the terror they had been led to believe.

Can You Do New Math With Old Math Minds

This familiar line from Peanuts has become the constant plea of math students at C.H.S. Here they find that Charlie Brown's humor takes on new meaning for them. Struggling with the philosophy of "new math", the wishy-washe's, the blockhead's, and the all-knowing Lucy's are finding it harder to understand than just to apply. Determination, such as holding onto a security blanket; skill, as in pursuing the Red Baron; logic, like knowing when to come in off the roof out of the rain; perseverance, like that of waiting for the "Great Pumpkin" are required of all "new math" students.

Students Teachers Get Preview of Their Career

The teachers and students alike are helped at CHS by the several student teachers. These student teachers come from various colleges and universities from throughout the state, but all of them are joined here to try and teach us something, or to let us teach them something. CHS has always had a fine group of teachers, and this year has surpassed in quality and all around capability.

Mr. Ross and Mr. Bohannon are invaluable assets to the students at CHS, as we will testify. They plan for us, guide us, counsel us, teach us, and most importantly they help pave the way to our future by getting us into colleges, universities, and trade schools.

Miss Lane awaits the arrival of her All-American sweetheart—Clark Kent.

Mr. Bohannon greets all of his students with that same understanding smile.

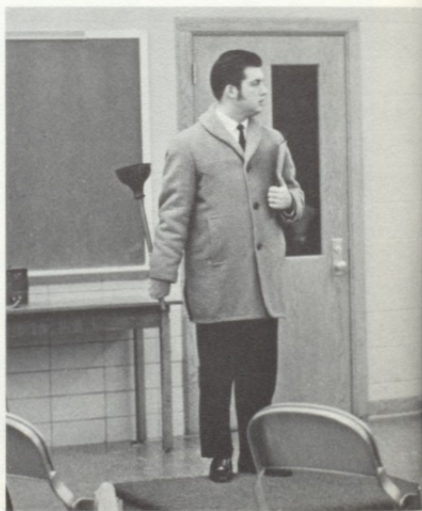

Mrs. Barbara Ross is met by many pleasant surprises in her job as counselor.

Fine Arts Awaken Us to Life

Art awakens us to life, to each other, to ourselves. Through the arts, people can find expressions for inner feelings. Artists search for relationships within their lives, their colleagues, themselves, and the world around them.

Through an organized debate team, talented C.H.S. students research, gather data and form opinions on whether or not the U.S. should have a compulsory selective service, this year's chosen debate topic for the state of Michigan. In forensics, students interpret documented or original material, give speeches, and compete in various competitions.

More C.H.S. talent is displayed in the art classes where amazing creations are molded out of a weary lump of clay, and a blank piece of canvas suddenly becomes a bright summer day.

The steady beat, "bounce, bounce, bounce, fingers, knuckles, hands," carries the rhythm resounding through the gym. The pounding echo of feet in motion provides the drumming background. Above this rhythm rises a syncopated beat as a volleyball is tossed over the net, with backhand, forehand, a fist. The basketball guided deftly up the courts lends a final peculiar rhythm to the mixture of unpatterned beat.

The tempo of each activity differs; classes continue, and the beat goes on.

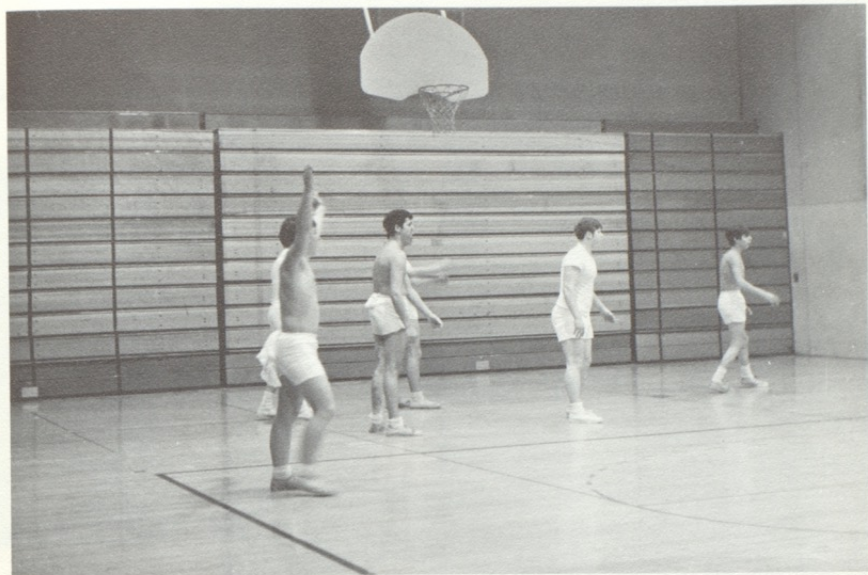

Mr. Lopez, CHS driver education teacher, smiles bravely as he prepares for another nerve-racking ride with a student driver.

Mrs. Gruner became the new girls' phys. ed. teacher.

Ledgers,

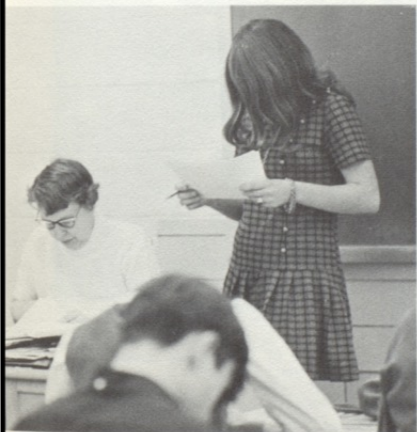

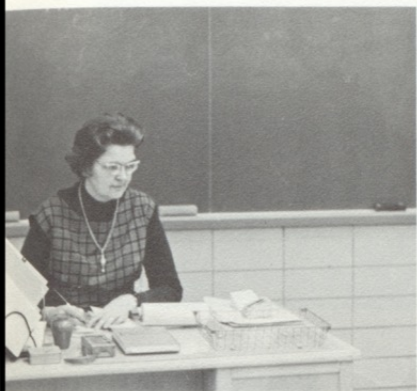

Typewriters Are Tools of This Trade

Through the fine program of Vocational Education, C.H.S. students are prepared for full-time employment or for advanced training. Courses such as Typing II, Stenography II, Clerical and Secretarial Office Practice, enable a girl to learn the skills of an efficient office worker. Bookkeeping II offers departmental and payroll accounting, a review of adjustments, partnership accounting, and trade acceptances.

Students who succeed in their chosen vocation after graduation have C.H.S. to thank for their fine and extensive background training.

HOME CONSTRUCTION AND RETAILING

To teach techniques of building homes is the main objective of the home construction class. They have built some fine homes, and there are many happy home owners that will testify to the excellence of the program.

Retailing is designed to teach interested students the fundamentals of business in our modern world. This business family is headed by W. W. Smith, the notorious father of La Costa Nostra; and all graduating students receive immediate placement in Sicily.

Industrial Vocations is a program in which students can learn on the job. Boys working in the downtown garage under the direction of Mr. Ruesink, learn the basic skills necessary for entry into full-time employment. They service and over-hall cars and probe into the mysteries an engine conceals.

Boys working in the drafting field receive the same opportunity to apply their skills. After taking the basic course in drafting at the high school, they can study in the downtown vocational course.

C.H.S. Faculty Is Reserved For After School

Teachers are human, too! Every time a student makes that discovery he thinks he has come up with a great new truth. A few fortunate souls whose mothers or sisters or uncles are teachers have an earlier exposure to this startling fact. They know that teachers aren't eternally devising ways to make life difficult for students, that they usually have many outside interests.

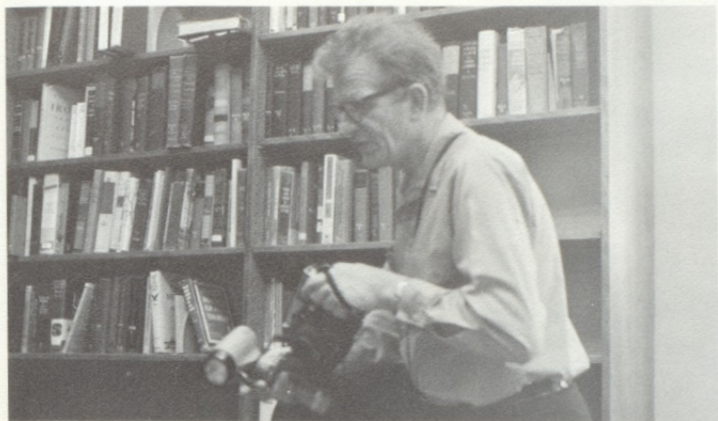

Students are sometimes unfortunate in not being able to see the other side of their teachers. In school they observe only the side that gives "pop" quizzes, assigns term papers, or tells you to get moving when you're just waiting for a friend to walk to class with.

Two good examples of these outside interests are the faculty play and the donation of some teachers' time to keep the Goodie Shop open during its owner's illness.

Commission Installs New Projects for CHS

Two lonely representatives attend a Commission meeting.

Coldwater is fortunate to have one of the finest commissions in the whole state, the whole nation, the whole world. Why, even LBJ, in one of his many visits to CHS, commented on the efficiency of our student government. We not only have the best looking mayor in the Twin Valley but we also have super comedian "Cheeky" Pierce. Just ask Jim Rohloff; he'll tell you that Coldwater has one of the most "colorful" commissions on the market. It's a credit and relief to know that we are so gifted to have such talented (and good-looking) commissioner on the job working for the betterment of our school and social life. Now seriously, all of the above are true.

Cardinal Staff Strives To Meet Deadlines

Between Mr. King's and Mrs. Sellmer's room is a tiny nook that most students don't even know exists. In this little room, yearbook staff members struggle with incomplete copies, blurred negatives and unmet deadlines. (All of the members join together with their pica rulers, charts and paper, attacking the undesirable counting, cropping and making other preparations in order to turn out what they promise to be "the best ever.") The entire staff unites to share the joy of returned blow-ups or the discouragement in realizing that the last roll of film was taken with the cap on the lens of the camera.

In all, this year will be memorable not only for the crumpled masses of copy in the waste basket or the desperation to meet deadlines, but mostly because of the experiences shared.

To some of us, spending the rest of our lives in school may seem a little extreme and extraordinary, but to the future teachers, it's a prospect they are looking forward to. Of course, there are those of us who will spend the rest of our lives in the second grade because we just aren't awfully smart.

The Future Teachers' Association is geared to teach the members more about the teaching profession. This goal of better understanding is often achieved by practice, so many of the members have jobs in the afternoon in our elementary school. They observe as well as teach and the program has been highly successful as a basis for going into the teaching career.

The Future Secretaries' Association is aimed at promoting knowledge of office work. In their meetings they learn of new techniques that will be of use to them in the future. Representatives from business machine companies talk to the club about the kinds of equipment that is being used today and the proper way to handle it.

Thespians learn the Ins and Outs of Acting

Thespians live in their own world on the stage.

The Thespians, under the direction of Phyllis Coscarelly, capitalize on the theatre. The members learn the techniques and skills of acting along with an acquaintance with the modern theatre. The Teen Chamber works closely with the Coldwater Chamber of Commerce on many of its worthwhile activities. One of the most important of these is the judging of lights and decorations on the houses over the Christmas holiday. This fine organization is advised by Nita Hart.

The debate team of the '68-'69 season may have been small in number, but they proved themselves large in stature. In the tournaments, they participated in a fashion that represented CHS as most commendable. Amongst our debaters there may be a future governor, or congressman, or ambassador, or even a president.

The vigor of the forensics team is typical of CHS; yet they stand out in their uniqueness and talent. They entered in such tournaments as the Battle Creek Bowl and the districts, and those who qualified went to the regionals. People in these programs deserve a lot of credit because it isn't easy to get up at 5:30 to go to those tournaments.

Band Activities Include Marching, Concerts, Festivals, and School Spirit

We're proud of our music man, Mr. Gordon Sabin because he has not only taught us how to display our talent more effectively, but he has also done a great job in organizing and directing our band. Many of the individual members deserve a lot of credit for their work which they put in to make the band so great. It is certain that the band as a whole is worthy of our highest praise. They have been an invaluable asset at our home football games because of the entertainment they provided for us during half time. They are as equally appreciated at pep assemblies and home basketball games where they always are there to raise a little spirit and a lot of pride.

Hours of work go into a half-time show.

The Harmonious Voices of Creation Help Sing

If you see a certain person walking around with a plunger in his hand, it's most likely not what you think it's for. Now, we return to the choir. As we all will recall, in one of the many presentations given to us this year by the choir, there was a variety of noises, one of which was that of a plunger.

The CHS Choir and the Balladiers have long been a source of great pride for our high school. It seems that every time they attend a contest, they come home with awards and first places by the trillions. If you missed the excitement this year, remember, Uncle Skip Wants YOU!

CHS a Melting Pot

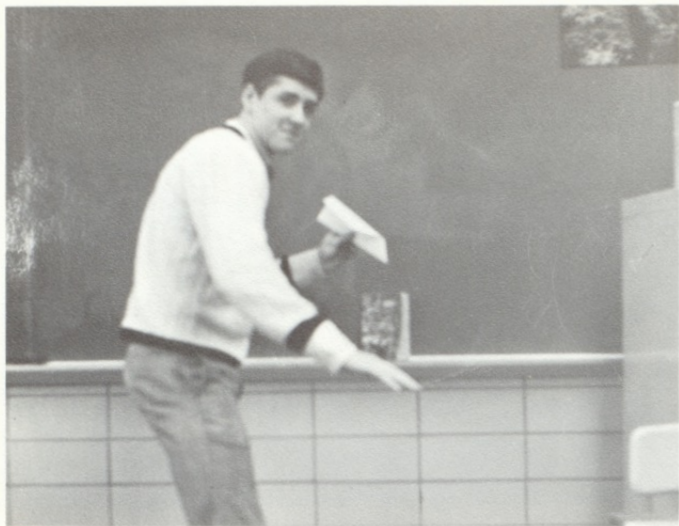

EXCHANGE STUDENTS. As in the past, CHS has been the "melting pot" for exchange students from all parts of the world. Germans, Finns, Philipinos, Danes, Swedes, and Norwegians have come together at CHS. They're not only students but they also assume the role of teacher in the language. It's a credit and a privilege to have such a wonderful program here at CHS.

Tri-H-Y Participates in Government

The Girls' Athletic Association sparked an interest in athletics in many of CHS's outgoing girls. They put in time outside of the regular physical education classes in order to learn more skills in gymnastics and to take part in such sports as bowling, volleyball, and swimming in Hillsdale.

The Tri-Hi-Y Club is a service organization concerned with the betterment of the greater Coldwater Community. Directed by Mrs. Lori, the club has launched such worthwhile projects as food and clothing drives, candy sales, and camp outs. As in years before, selected girls from the club attend the Michigan State Youth Legislature at Lansing. Three days are spent at the capital, girls playing the roles of young senators and legislators. The girls amend and pass laws.

Crowning Is the Highlight of Homecoming

Flowergirl, Maggie Reynolds, and crownbearer, Adam Smith, share the excitement of the Homecoming parade with Christy.

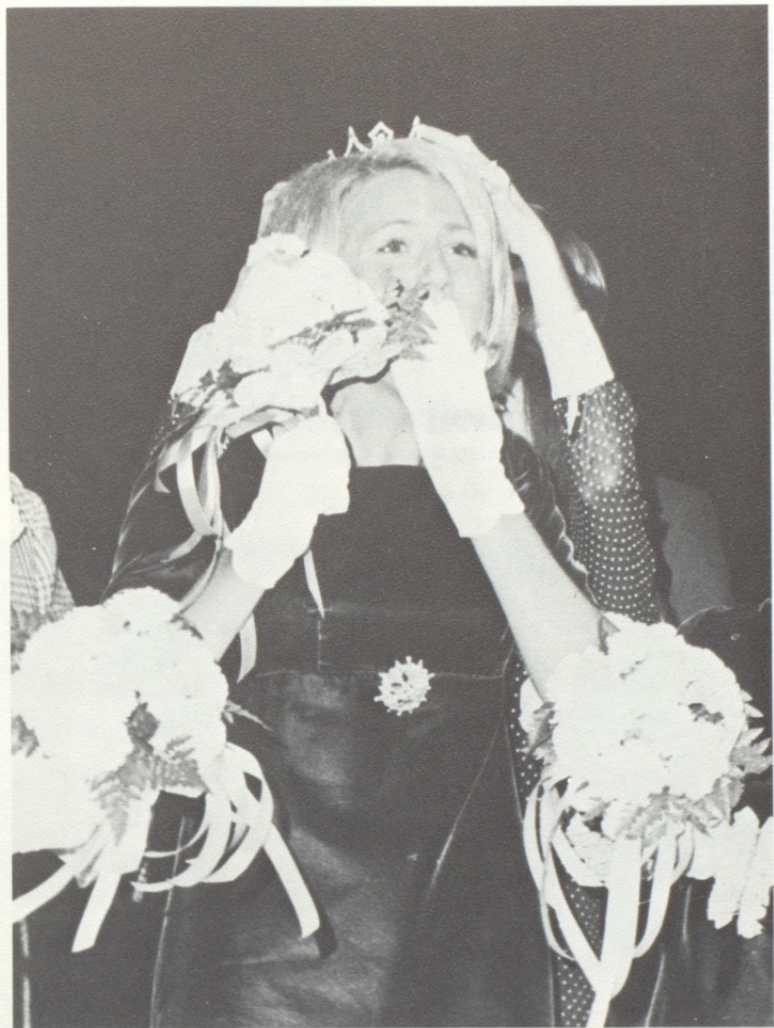

The highlight of Homecoming 1968 was the crowning of Nianne MacDonald as queen. Donna Snow, last year's queen, traditionally assisted Mayor Pillsbury in the ceremony.

From the sideline, the new queen, Cecil Mosier, Karen Haynes, Christy Foss, Karen Smith, and their escorts, Quinn Berry, Charlie Van Aken, Bill Bobier, Dave Pierce, and Tim Davis, cheered the Coldwater Cardinals on to a 19-6 victory over the Hillsdale Hornets.

The evening's events were witnessed by hundreds of townspeople and CHS alumni.

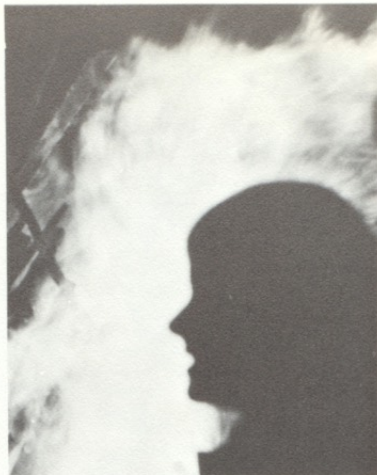

Queen Nianne and her court reigned over the "Electric Circus."

*Nianne MacDonald lost her composure as she was crowned

Suffering the only injury of the Mudbowl was Nianne MacDonald.

The Bonfire reflected school spirit.

The Electric Circus Swings

Mr. Keeslar patiently awaits to ring the victory bell for CHS.

The kickoff of the Electric Circus was the Mudbowl, where junior-senior rivalry was displayed. "Senior power" came through with a 6-0 victory over the juniors. Homecoming night brought the parade, complete with marching bands, homecoming court, and float entries.

People, hand in hand, twisting and turning, no not shing-a-linging, but participating in the fun filled Snake Dance. Led by the JV cheerleaders, the snake wound from downtown back to the school where everyone was greeted by the huge bonfire. School spirit rose with the flames, and the bonfire is recognized as a memorable event of the Circus.

The finale of the event was the dance under the "big top", with music by the Gents.

The refreshment booths expressed class individuality and the decorations created a circus-like atmosphere.

Seniors Take Their Last Turn on the Stage

The Senior class of '69 posed as the world waited for the plot to unroll in the delightful comedy RING AROUND THE MOON.

The play, directed by Lawrence Carrico and student director, Mary Jane McCollough, was a line comedy which featured senior Dean Herman in the role of twins. Other characters contributing to the confusion on stage were Deb Witmyer, Marian Urban, Ella Burk, Greg Dean, Tom Rzepka, Ingunn Jacobsen, Stacy Van Laanen, Cheryl Weaver, Willie Lytle, and Mike Doll.

One must realize that such a magnificent romantic play could not have been as successful without the devotion of the many crews.

Teachers Show Talent; SLICE IT THIN

The hilarious lines and fine acting presented in the teacher's play, "Slice It Thin," will long be remembered at CHS. Directed by Ken Hamlet and Nadia Lori, the play was presented five times, two of which were for donations only. Teachers who did not have a role in the play did their part by helping with props and advertising. The cast rehearsed for six weeks before putting on the final shows which brought in over $2,000. This money was used toward scholarships for six deserving students. A salute to the teachers of CHS!

Palm Trees, Volcano Weave Mood of Magic

The May weather, combined with the swirling music, created the ideal atmosphere for the "Song of the Islands", the 1967-68 Junior-Senior Prom.

Couples were enveloped in the tropical atmosphere created by a massive volcano, swaying palms, and a Polynesian shack.

The theme sets the beat, the beat creates the mood, and the mood lends a note of fascination, always unique, always remembered.

The Aloha Luau, better known as the Junior-Senior Banquet, was held in the preceding week of the prom, but still had the same Hawaiian atmosphere.

Karen Haynes, junior class president, welcomed the senior class and Roger Trana, senior class president, acknowledged the greeting. Mr. Ken Hamlet was welcomed as guest speaker and brought laughter from the audience upon delivering his humorous but meaningful speech on pollywogs.

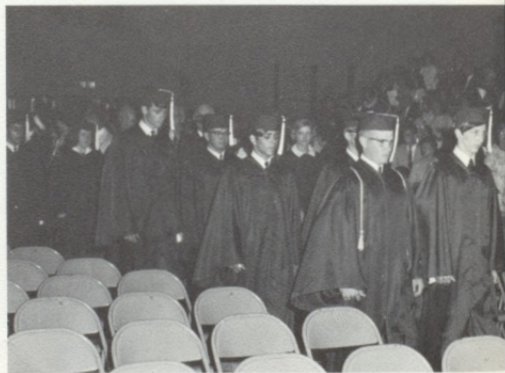

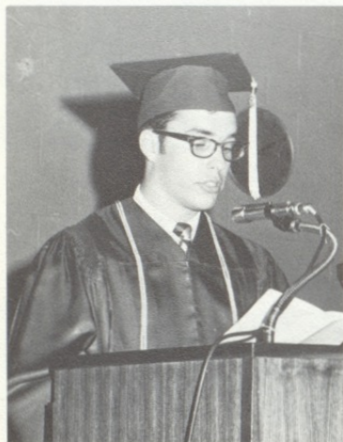

Graduation Is a Time

At last . . . graduation night. The 101st graduating class of CHS filed slowly onto Cardinal Field, the processional provided by the Symphony Band. The 241 robed seniors sat together for the last time as a class and listened to salutatorian Christine Hannon and valedictorian Rhonda Smith deliver their speeches. Class president Roger Trana presented the class gift of an outside bulletin board.

Principal Kermit Dennis delivered a speech to the group, the last class that would graduate while he presided at CHS.

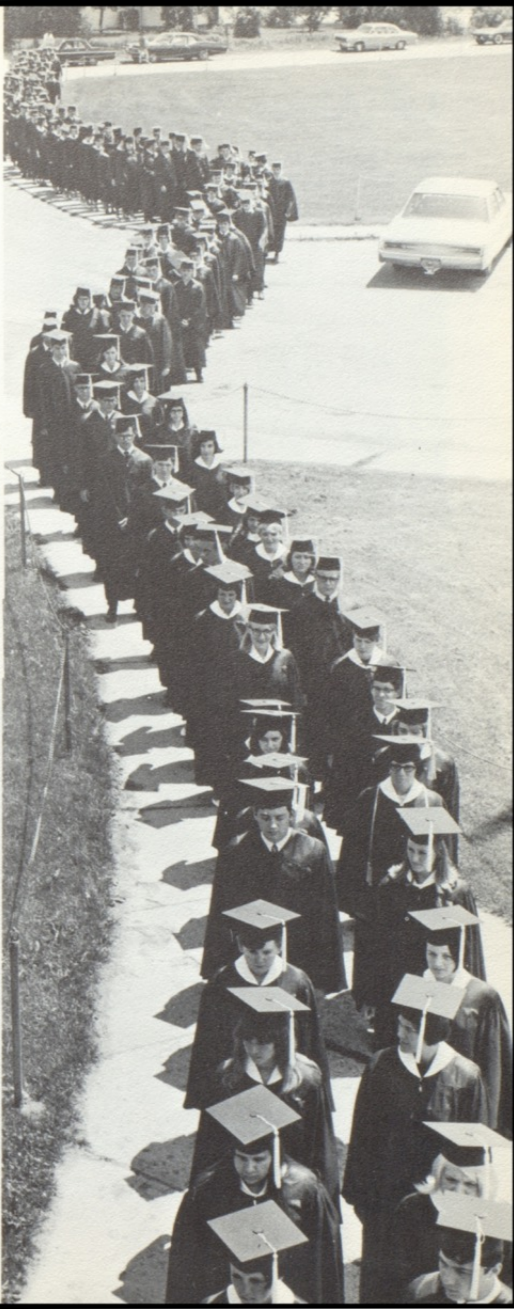

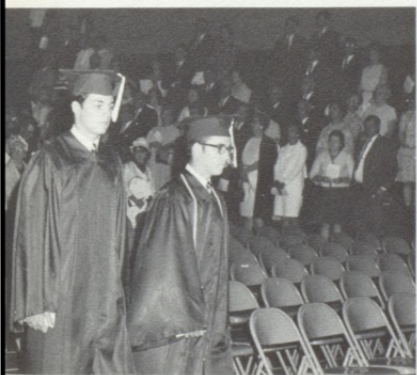

Dr. James M. Burke held the honor of granting the diplomas, the rolled pieces of parchment that rewarded 12 years of hard work. As the graduates filed up to receive their diplomas, their faces expressed mixed emotions. Some felt relief and elation, others felt sadness and confusion.

Lil' Abner Is Given To Capacity Crowd

The scene was Dogpatch USA, and the mood was lively and entertaining. With excellent direction, overpowering talent, and a full house, "Lil' Abner" was presented to the public at Tibbits Theater. This high school production has been acclaimed far and wide as the greatest release to hit Broadway. (Hanchett).

Under the choral direction of Skip Frizzell, the songs were sung to perfection and to the delight of the audience. The leading roles were played by Nannette Olmsted and Mike Doll, who both did a tremendous job, Ella Burk, who played the role of Mammy Yokum, will always be remembered for her fine acting performance and her striped socks.

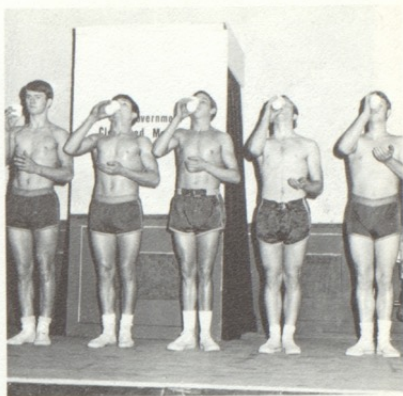

All in All, CHS can be very proud of their first and not last, high school musical performance.

Football Team Shows Many Improvements

The 1968 Coldwater High School football team, coached by Al Schorfhaar had its best season in several this year with a 3 win 5 loss record. The squad showed steady improvement throughout the year, moving from sixth place last year to fourth place this year. Mostly a young team, the Cards showed special strength in the hard working defense, which kept the scores close and was a vital asset in the three victories. A great deal will be expecting of these boys next year as most will be returning lettermen.

From this team will come many varsity men.

The reserve football team showed an amazing amount of ambition, talent, and good sportsmanship this year under the coaching of Mr. Olsen. They had a winning season by racking up four wins and three losses. The team effort they showed is sure to come through for us next year and carry us all the way to the Rose Bowl.

The cross country did the usual this year by ending up with a winning season again. But don't get the idea it came easily. These boys ran and trained while most of us were out shoveling our walks, and they fully deserve every honor and recognition they receive. They had the impressive record of winning five and losing only three. Coach Neil Brown had done a wonderful job in organizing the boys to make them into the perfectionists that they were.

Cheerleaders Gain Skills at Camp Clinic

A larger cheerleading squad this year added to the pep put-out this year. The varsity cheerleaders performed in new, stylish uniforms and spread their cheer with the help of bright, red and white pom poms. A mini-tramp was purchased, and the cheerleaders worked hard to learn the correct jumps.

A cheerleading clinic was attended, and from it the cheerleaders learned many new chants, mounts, and cheers.

Rain or shine, the Varsity squad was there to cheer on the Cardinal football team, and the Junior Varsity squad was always on hand to yell from the stands. At every basketball game one could see the cheerleaders rooting for the Cards, whether they were winning or losing. The cheerleaders of CHS deserve a salute!

Disappointment Haunts Cardinal Campaign

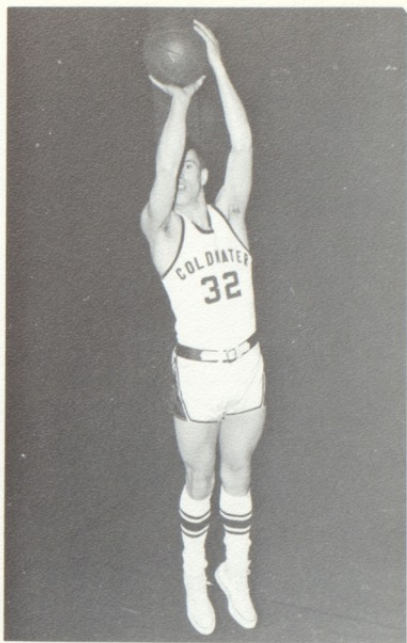

"Struggle" was the trade mark of this year's varsity basketball season. Finishing in fifth place in Twin Valley competition, the value of this season cannot be measured in terms of wins and losses. The talent, desire, and sportsmanship ranked this year's team high among teams of the past and among other teams of the conference.

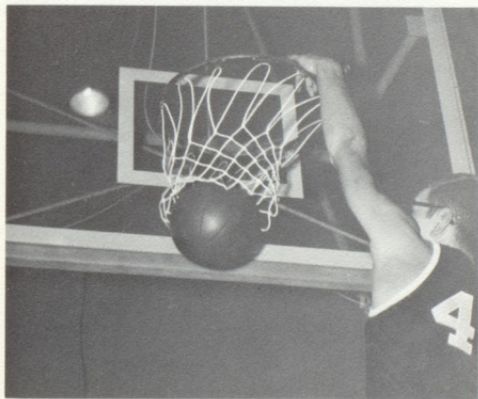

Though as a whole the season was somewhat less than successful, a few highlights should make us proud of our team. Quinn Berry, the leading scorer of the squad, was named to the first string of the all-conference team. Ron LaBelle, a junior forward, was named to the second team, and John Swanson, the valuable pivot man, was given honorable mention. With a losing season, we always look forward to next year; and with a predominately junior squad this year, we are fortunate in having much to look forward to. We'll certainly miss our seniors. They've given us much time and effort to support the school. As the cheer goes, "We're proud of our team."

Quinn Berry adds another two points to the score.

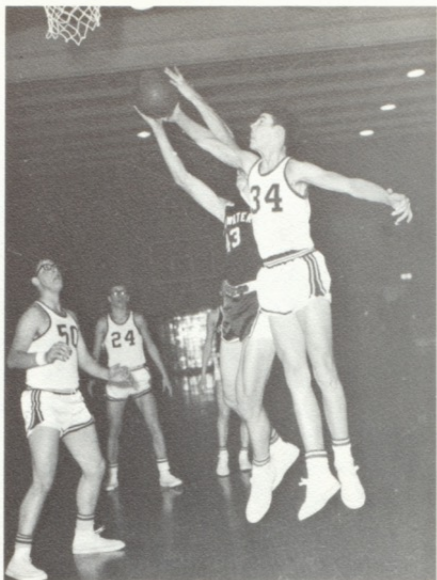

Don't hide your face, Quinn.

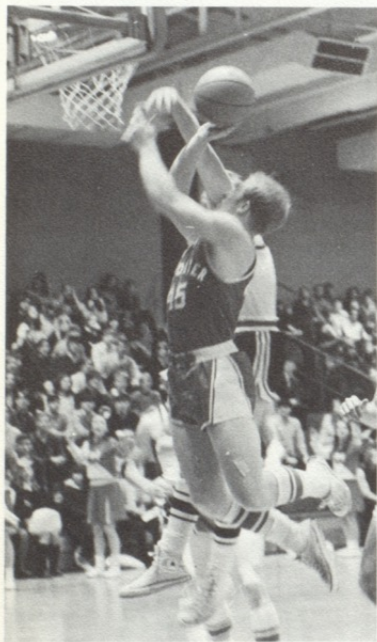

I thought stuffing the ball was illegal!

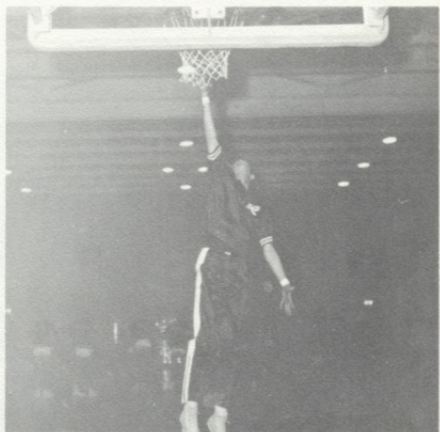

John Swanson scores two with a leap and a bound.

And it's up, up, and away with Mike Murphy.

Jeff Lowe still controls the ball, although a pressing Beaver tries to correct that.

Good practice is an essential part of any game.

Grapplers Show Potential for Coming Years

Scott Barringer and Jim Hashley are Twin-Valley Champs.

The Cardinal grapplers suffered many setbacks this year. This was true mainly because the majority of the varsity squad was made up of first-year wrestlers. Being coached by Wayne Kellogg and Dale Ropp the wrestlers did their best and gained much experience. All of CHS is looking forward to the next couple years when the grapplers' mats of the Twin Valley will once again be dominated by Cards.

Team Ranks Second in State

The 1968 Coldwater High School varsity baseball team finished with another excellent season this year, taking the Twin Valley title easily with a perfect 18-0 record. Playing outstanding baseball throughout the schedule, the Cardinals managed to boost their conference record over the past two years to an impressive 33 wins and 3 losses.

Summing it up, Coach Lowe remarked, "We have had many good baseball teams at Coldwater High, but this team would probably have to be considered the best."

After Twelve Long Years They Are Finally Seniors

He that will look forward must look behind. Gaelic Proverb.

Seniors have come through four years of hard work, fun and at times, bewilderment. The last few months have been ones of impatience, rebellion and they feel the urge to go forth into the world. They realize that the years of parties, tooling the Mo, class plays, and just plain getting together have passed. They count the days until graduation, anxiously waiting for their diplomas, yet all the while they are wondering where the future will lead. With one last look to the past, seniors march from the halls of CHS and into a new life.

Class officers John Borden, Vice President; Cindy Green, Secretary; Mike Doll, President; and Joe Metters, Treasurer, spend a reflective moment.

The juniors, known for their driving class spirit and prize winning floats, look back at their last three years with pride. The three years have been filled with unforgettable experiences, experiences to be remembered. The thrill of seeing a successful prom and banquet put on was only one of the many activities that the junior year held.

Questions have been encountered and many left unanswered. The juniors are beginning to feel the pressure of raising their average, deciding on possible careers and hope to get into college. The next year will be an enlightening one for them but they are prepared to meet its destiny.

Activities Spotlight Individual Talents

Rough 'n Ready Sophs Learn Quickly

Youth is the opportunity to do something, to become somebody —

T. T. Munger

Sophomores emerged into the halls of C.H.S. early last fall and were swept up into times of work, fun, and confusion. As high school students they now were beginning to form ideas, opinions and know where they were headed. This year was one of the most trying years that a sophomore can encounter. It separates the leader from the follower, the enthusiast from the wallflower.

A person begins to find his identity and to strive to make something of himself. The sophomores worked hard this year to become a class united in enthusiasm and opportunity. They can proudly claim that their first year at C.H.S. was truly a success.

Awards Are Presented for 1969

1969 valedictorian is Caroline Connell. Studying math and science, she plans to attend college to major in mathematics. A member of the National Honor Society, Caroline has maintained a high scholastic average throughout high school. She has also been a member of the CHS band and has worked on co-op. She also has curvature of the spine from looking for one of her many pairs of contact lenses.

Janette Hinkley is this year's salutatorian. A very active student, she has been a 4-year member of the band and the forensics team, winning awards in both. Other activities to her credit include the National Honor Society, Teenage Republicans, and campaign work for local political candidates. Because of her political interests, along with her other fine qualities, she was chosen as a delegate to the 1968 Wolverine Girls' State. Next year Janette will attend Michigan State University and major in social sciences in James Madison College.

Cecile Mosier was selected as outstanding girl citizen in the DAR Good Citizens program.

Cecile, selected by her classmates and the faculty, was chosen for her dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism.

Active in Future Secretaries this year, Cecile has previously participated in Tri-Teens and Pep Club. She has also been a commissioner, class officer, and a member of the Homecoming Court for two years.

Ideal Boy and Girl Are Selected

Initiative, scholastic ability, cooperation, leadership . . . all these traits can be found in our Ideal Boy and Girl for 1968-69.

Kay has been very active in her four year of high school. Her schedule has consisted of being a member of Tri-Teens, Latin and German Clubs, Thespians, Future Teachers, Teen Chambers, Future Nurses, Cardinal staff, and Frank's Fan Club. Kay also attended Girls' State last year.

Virgil has been a member of both debate and forensics for two years. In forensics he participated in oratory. He has also been in scouts for many years, and is now an Eagle Scout. Being a scout camp counselor is one of his main hobbies, while he also enjoys bowling.

NHS Represents Scholarship and Leadership

Quill and Scroll Awards Are Presented

Outstanding journalistic students make up those who receive the Quill and Scroll Awards. They are selected from the Chatter, the Mirror, and the Cardinal. The juniors receive a pin and the seniors a certificate for their achievements. It's not much for all the time they spend working to promote the news of CHS. (It sells for about 35 cents at the hock shop.)

Mrs. Hayes relates "Mission Impossible" plan to crew for the next deadline of the Mirror.

Future Homemaker Is Chosen

Ranae K. Cushing, a senior, recently received the 1969 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow Award for CHS. To compete for this award, Ranae had to take an achievement aptitude test, which ranked highest here against fifteen other participants.

Ranae, who has taken four years of Home Economics, plans to major in Home Ec. in college. Her main interest is in the field of interior decorating. Besides maintaining a B average in high school, Ranae is interested in playing the piano and organ.

For winning the local competition, she received a Homemaker of Tomorrow and a personal letter of congratulations from Betty Crocker.

Seniors With B or Better Average Honored

FRONT ROW: B. Lukazcek, C. Green, K. Haynes, B. Baird, S. Kelly, E. Burk, C. Cuthbert, J. Herrick, SECOND ROW: R. Kerr, I. Jacobsen, K. Brandes, M. Lindbloom, D. Phelps, J. Hauska, J. Hinkley, C. Shafer, C.

At Home CHS'ers Are

TOP: CHS Betty Crocker Award winners show form as Captains Gage and MacRae shout instructions. MIDDLE: People whispered it couldn't be done. Berry and Gage prove it. BOTTOM: "What do you say we forget the award and eat it, Tony?" BELOW: Sue surveys the wreckage after Mrs. Watson ransacks the house looking for Sr. Math papers.

As Brilliant As in School

LEFT: Stacey keeps cool as she explains that she is not his mother. BOTTOM: A student suffers embarrassment after spending her last cent on a sandwich in cafeteria. ABOVE: Dogs tell Angelica that with the right diet, she could look like Rin Tin Tin, too.

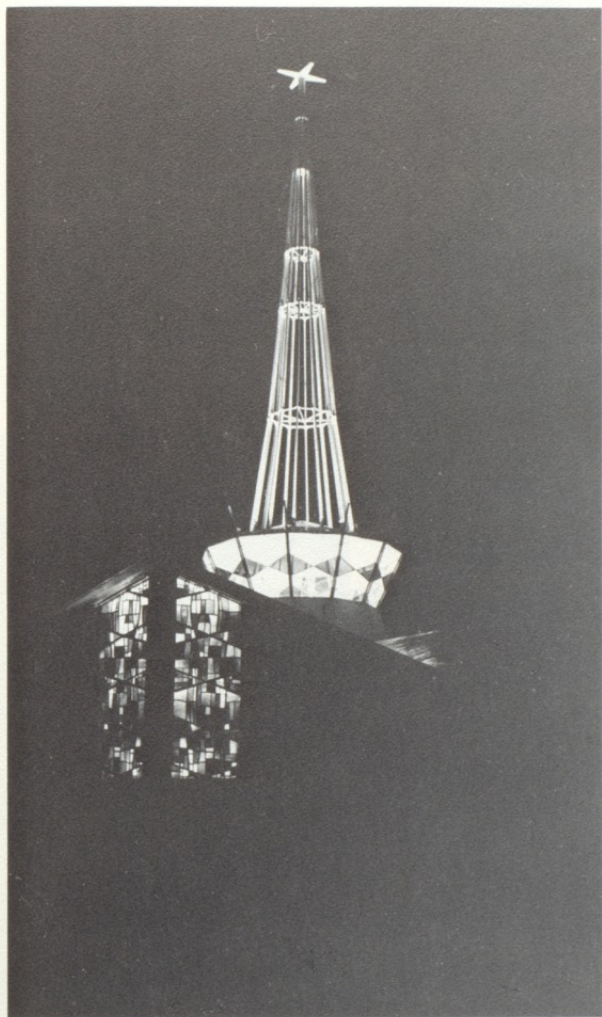

ABOVE: The Methodists file out after another soul-searching service. BELOW: Sunday school students ponder about mistakes of the past week.

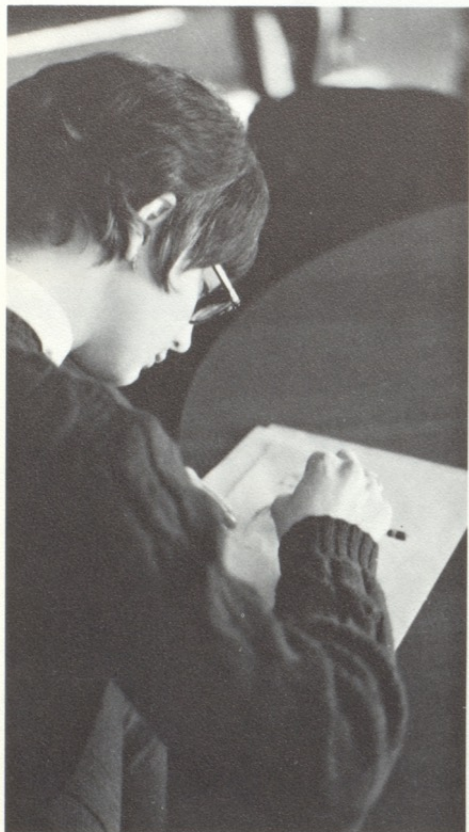

Religion Is Important Part of Students' Lives

This Is the Rain,

the Park, and Other Things

Rarely does one appreciate people until they are gone.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased in the UK (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (1998) has set out a vision of a new mental health system, which will be based on the following principles:

- (i) People with mental health problems should be treated as individuals, with their own needs and wishes.
- (ii) People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care and treatment.
- (iii) People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live in their own homes and communities.
