Dedication

Dear Bob,

This book is dedicated to you in memory of the wonderful years we had together. They were good years, and the memory of the good times soothes us in the sadness of your untimely passing.

As we look back on this year, we remember Homecoming, and you accepting the Pep Jug for the Sophomore Class, and then the Sadie Hawkins Dance. You will be happy to know the Bunny Hop went off as we planned.

The Band and Chorus dedicated their Spring Festival to your memory, and so, we too dedicate this Oriole-Annual to your memory.

God bless you, until we meet again.

Sincerely,

Your friends of Quincy
Community Schools

FACULTY

Mr. Burt, Superintendent

Heading our school system is the Superintendent's office. Here are established the policies which determine the quality of each graduate certificate. It is Mr. Burt's responsibility to see that the policies of the Board of Education are carried out in the Quincy Community Schools.

Mr. Newell Burt came to us as superintendent from New Buffalo, Michigan. Mr. Burt had been a principal for eight years before coming to Quincy. He is married and has a son and a daughter. His hobbies are all sports as a spectator except for tennis and fishing.

Superintendent and Secretary, Mrs. Susan Lambright

Mrs. Susan Lambright came to our school as the secretary in December of 1953. Before coming here as secretary she had worked in banks for ten years. Mrs. Lambright has two small children, a boy and a girl.

Principal, Mr. VanLandingham

To many students a visit to the Principal's office has un-pleasant memories. But its real purpose is not so much disciplinary as to act as the nerve center for this business of education. It acts to co-ordinate the education of each student in order to turn out well rounded graduates.

Mr. Dean VanLandingham came to us as high school principal from Boyne City. Mr. VanLandingham is married and has three children, two boys and one girl. Mr. Van has helped us all very much this past year, and we are glad to have him.

Principal and Secretary, Miss Nell Kellicut

Nell Kellicut has been the principal's secretary since she graduated from Quincy High School in 1953. She was replaced at the beginning of the second semester by Mrs. Donna Omo when she started working at the Quincy Bank.

Janitors Bus Drivers

Janitors: Mr. Glen Houck, Mr. Clyde Hoffman.

“Why can’t the janitors do this?” This is a question often asked by high school students. One thing students don’t realize is that the janitors aren’t here to be your personal maid. They come to school hours earlier and stay hours later than any of you do.

Every day, rain or shine, sleet or snow the bus drivers are always there to pick you up and take you to school. Bus drivers, like janitors have to get up hours earlier than you do, to make it to school with all the students by 9 in the morning.

Mr. Clyne, Elementary Principal

Quincy Elementary School

This year was the first full year of school held in the new Elementary School. As you can be sure, everyone who went to school in it, loved every minute of it. The teachers were all delighted at being the first teachers to teach in the new school for a full year. They had great fun decorating their new rooms with the help of their students. The lower grade rooms each had their own private rest rooms and all the rooms had their own sink and drinking fountain. This saved a lot of time during the day.

The new trees the P. T. A. planted and the new grass that is coming up really makes the new school look nice.

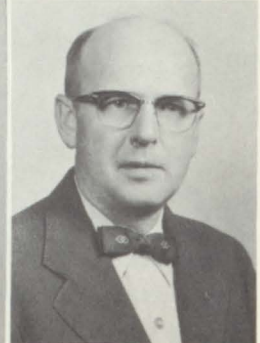

The new school has helped the students to care for their own things better by helping to care for the new school and all the new things in it.

Mr. Clyne enjoyed his office very much this year. He was able to preform all the many duties of a principal with greater efficiency in his new office.

Cafeteria Staff Custodians

"Boy this food is good, may we have seconds?" This is a statement any cook likes to hear and the cooks at the elementary school like to hear it just as much as any other cook. They did, too, for the food they served was every bit as good as you would have gotten at home. And it sure was better than carrying your lunch or walking all the way home when the weather was bad.

The Parent-Teacher-Association mothers helped to serve the lunches and to supervise the playground, during the noon hour, this year.

Keeping house for a brand new school is not quite as bad a job as for an older school but the job is still quite rugged. The grade school children realized this fact and helped the janitors in their job. The children helped by putting their waste paper in the waste baskets, by putting their chairs on their desks before they went home and.

Teaching is a wonderful profession. Just ask any one of the teachers in Quincy's school system, and they will be glad to tell you some of the reasons they like their jobs so.

One qualification of every teacher is that you must like children and want to help and teach them during the formative years. Teachers are the backbone of a country.

Teaching school six hours a day, helping with the noon hour programs, being ready before and after school to answer all the little questions you have are just a few of the many pleasant things teachers do during the course of a school year.

Besides all this they have to go to institutes and conventions for teachers. There they learn about the problems of other teachers and try to overcome some of their own teaching problems. Usually they find that the big problems they thought they had were really very small ones.

Many pleasant experiences can be had during a teaching career. Watching small children grow into happy, active teenagers, from there into young men and women and watching how they use the teaching they have received is a gratifying experience for most teachers.

Yes, teaching is fun and the nice schools that they are privileged to work in is another reason for saying with pride, "I am glad that I am a teacher."

SENIORS

UNDERGRADUATES

Mr. Oberlin, John Toth, Marian King, Dan Ludlow, Doug Condra, Carlene Knisely, Leo Matz, Georgianna Thompson, Mr. Elenbass.

Seniors

The seniors of this year, better known as the class of 1956, or even more commonly to underclassmen as "those seniors", under took and completed several money-making projects during their final year at Q. H. S. Along with working on these projects, our proud graduates found sufficient time for parties and other social activities.

At the homecoming last fall, which was one of the most successful in the history of our high school, the seniors contributed both the king and queen of the event, Doug Condra and Marian King. The class also furnished various talents such as float building, acting, and just plain cheering for the team.

Other projects, were the senior play and a talent show, both of which were extremely successful. For the senior play a mystery, "Drums of Death", The production was directed Mr. Ray Condon, with eight class members in the cast and many others working behind the scenes.

Lucia Van Doran
Virginia Dryer

John Toth, Roma Becker, Lucia Van Doren, Judy Wibel, Dan Ludlow, Georgianna Thompson

Leading the class scholastically were Dan Ludlow, Valedictorian, and Lucia Van Doren, Salutatorian. Several other individuals stood high with averages of B or better.

Finishing off their final year in high school the class traveled to New York City for their five-day senior trip.

All in all the class of 1956 have rounded out a full and successful high school career, and are now prepared to make their own way in the world of today.

Juniors

The Junior Class has been very busy this year, honoring the senior class with the Junior-Senior Banquet, putting on the J-Hop, giving a play and all the other little things that take up class meetings.

A pancake supper, held in the elementary gym, satisfied big appetites.

The highlights of the Junior-Senior Banquet was the appearance of the "4 Monotones"; remember them? Don Anderson was spot-lighted that night. The sextette of junior girls was good, too.

The J-Hop with its Hawaiian theme was really nice. You could almost feel the breeze floating in over the beach and softly caressing your cheek. How did you like that, Seniors?

"Curtain Going Up", with Mary Lampman and Carol Lashuay sharing the spot-light, was really a highlight of the year for some juniors. Three performances really made it good.

Sophomores

The sophomore class decreased in size during the past year. When the sophomores were freshmen, there were eighty-one enrolled, which is fifteen more than the total number of students now in the tenth grade. Although, at the first of the year, there were sixty-eight. Two were added before school started; they were Jim Shaw and Bruce Hellenburg. Robert Holt was the only drop-out on the list, but another empty chair was left by Robert Coates, who was the victim of an unfortunate accident.

The class won the Oriole Pep Jug, which is given to the class who have the most pep and school spirit during Homecoming. They had first place on their float; second on posters; tied for first on their very cute skit; third in the yell fest; first in the parade; and second in the Homecoming Game attendance. The president received the Pep Jug on behalf of the class. This winning of the Pep Jug marked the first year the class of '58 has ever placed in the competition.

In October, the class held the annual "Sadie Hawkins Dance", which was given this year in honor of the Freshmen. The dance turned out to be the most successful dance given by the Sophomores.

But although this dance was a success, March 31st turned out to be Black Saturday for the class. This was the date of the "Bunny Hop", which, despite a really good band; the 4 Down Beats, ran them ten dollars in the hole. The little wishing well didn't even bring much more than "Three Coins in That Fountain". This was the first time the class failed to accomplish their goal.

Paula received an honorable mention in the annual "T.B." speaking contets. She was the only sophomore to do so.

Susan Smith, another sophomore, was elected to serve on the court of the Winter Carvniel Queen.

Freshmen

The Freshmen Class has done many different things. This year under the new Student Council, a Decoration Committee was set up and Freshmen won prizes on that a couple of times. The little poem that tells of all the many things done by the class this year was written by a class member.

With 68 kids in the freshman class,
 Each of them worried that they won't pass;
 But determined to stick tight to the last,
 We'd like to say hello.

The daring sponsors to our cause,
 Are Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Hause.
 Who kept the rules and enforced the laws,
 We thank you both a lot.

Everyone thought himself a smarty,
 Who paid his dues and wasn't tardy;
 So he could go to our skating party,
 We sure had lots of fun.

The Sergeant of Arms system we're using,
 At first we feared would be confusing;
 But noise and trouble OUR class is losing,
 'Tis true, we're very proud.

We chose the colors silver and blue,
 And with a red rose, there were very few,
 Who stood against the freshman crew,
 And that's the way we like it.

The freshman were honored this spring,
 At the Sadie Hawkins Dance, given here,
 To our Sophomore friends, we give a cheer
 Sure hope you know we loved it.

In conclusion we'd like to say,
 The freshman class is on their way.
 We're proud as 'soldiers in a line;
 To be the class of '59'.

Eighth Grade

The eighth grade was busy this year, helping form the Junior High Student Council, and the Junior High Court. Since they are the oldest class in Junior High, they are naturally the leaders in forming new ideas. The Court and the Council are formed like the Senior High Court and Council, but are run on a smaller scale and are strictly for Junior High Students. The reports of the proceedings can be found in the Oriole Newspaper, and during the year, the reports of misdemeanors seem to be getting smaller, showing that the court and council must be successful.

They were also busy taking part in the Homecoming Parade and game, with a float and lots of posters. The yell fest was a lot of fun, too, and though the sophomores won the Pep Jug, they gave them some competition.

They had a skating party at Hillsdale, at the "Stadium", which was a lot of fun. Nearly everyone went, and they really had a good time. Skating is always a lot of fun.

The class this year had an enrollment of approximately 90 pupils. The officers were: President, Susan Zeck; Vice President, Bob Hacker; Secretary, Duane Crapo; Treasurer, Buddy Hagaman; Reporter, Paul Green. These officers worked well together and under the direction and assistance of Mr. Condon, and Mr. Evans, carried out their plans.

Seventh Grade

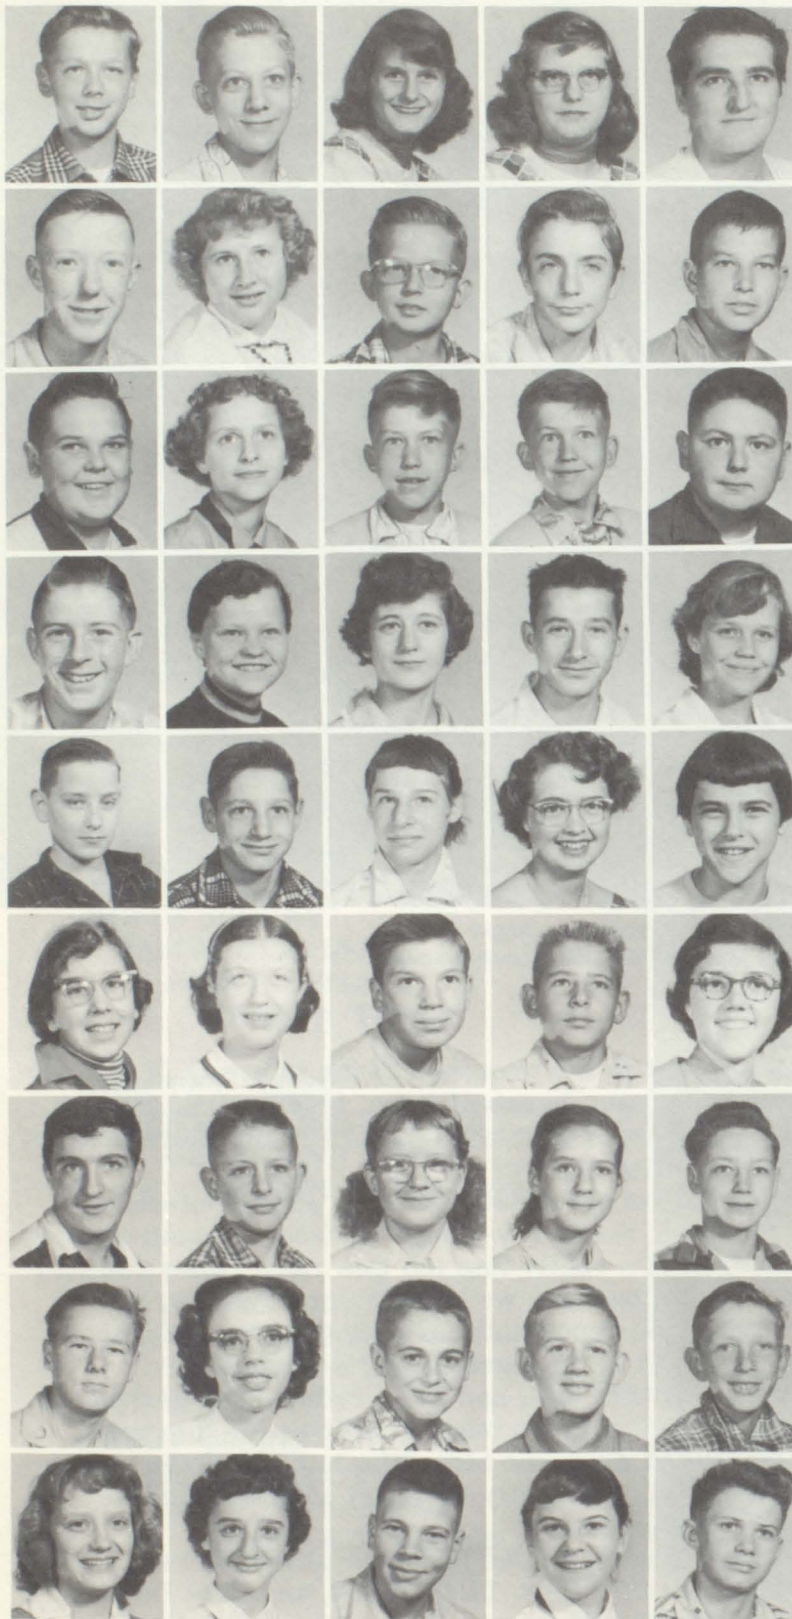

Hello you lucky people. You are now in the presence of the future Q. H. S. football team, debaters, band, basketball team, baseball team, track stars, student council officers; in fact the future talent of Quincy High. We're not there yet, but you just wait a few years. We're coming up fast!

This year we elected the following as our class officers: President-Judy Fisher; Vice President-Judy Hampton; Secretary-Donna Brazee; Treasurer-Dick Hacker. We think that our officers did a really fine job this year. They couldn't do much of anything except a good job; because we had for our advisors, Mr. Bard and Mr. Cooper. Their help made it possible for us to learn a little about parliamentary procedure, and how to get along together and work together.

Since we are rather new in the upstairs hall, and were rather busy getting adjusted to so many teachers, we didn't plan too many activities for this year. One of the things we, as well as almost everyone else, like to do is skate; so we planned a skating party on March 5, We really had a lot of fun. Since we were so green, we didn't sponsor anything else.

We had a very large class to begin with, but we had several members drop out. They were: Vern Cluff, Kirk Scriber, Larry Reed, and Ruel De Water. We're awfully sorry they aren't with us anymore. We did have several new members who helped fill the holes left by the others. We've very glad to have them with us. They are: Charles Sawyer, Paula Knapp, and Charles Lynn.

We had a float for homecoming, and had a good time working on that.

Sixth Grade

At Allen this year, the grades have been very busy carrying out their little projects. Sometimes each grade carried out its own big project, but this year the sixth grade decided to carry out several small ones instead. They made several maps, which the children found very interesting. They made one large map of France, which the whole class worked on. The children brought in pictures showing the products and occupations of the people of France. This was their large project of the year, but it was still small enough for them to carry on their small ones, too. They made a map of Japan, which was to help them learn how the country is made up of many islands. This was also very interesting to them because they had not heard too much about Japan, before this time. They also made a map of Africa, and colored the different regions in the continent.

Fifth Grade

The second graders did a lot of different things. Besides doing their work very well they had a lot of fun at the parties they had in their room this year. At Easter time they made baskets and dyed Easter eggs, then they drew names and hid an egg for the person they drew.

Mrs. Moore's second graders put on a Saint Patrick's Day program for the other second grade rooms. Everyone enjoyed this very much.

An aquarium was made by the third graders this year. Also several plants and many exhibits were brought to school by the students. Exploring science was something new and interesting to the third graders.

Working hard to make good fifth graders was the aim of the fourth graders. They had several parties and a Christmas program that they enjoyed very much.

The fifth grade studied the Basic Seven quite intensely this year. They tried to overcome many of their dislikes in food. They had fun and learned all about foods and growth too.

Fourth Grade

Cowboys and Indians seemed to be the interest of the third grade. They started a Unit on Indians, in the fall, that the children really enjoyed. They were extremely interested in finding out that U. S. Highway 112, which runs through their town, was once an Indian Trail.

The Cowboy interest showed itself in the forming of a Cowboy Council in their room. They had a head foreman and an assistant. Gretchen Knapp was head foreman and Karen Aemisegger was her assistant. They liked working together, and the other children thought they were fine leaders. They also have learned that teamwork is the essence of democracy.

The children learned to use their minds in a slightly different way; through memory work. This will help them to become adept at remembering important things, because this is one talent that improves through practice. They learned the names of the Book of the Old Testament, The Preamble of the Constitution of the United States, and also the third verse of the Star Spangled Banner.

First Grade

The Kindergarten has done two very important things this year. The first was the train ride from Bronson to Quincy. They rode to Bronson on the big yellow school bus and then they got off and got on a great big train and rode home to Quincy. This was a new experience, for most of the children had never been on a train before.

When Mr. Burt handed them their Kindergarten graduation diplomas they were really thrilled. They were graduated in white caps and gowns just like the Seniors. They sure had a lot of fun at their first graduation.

First graders were very busy decorating their room for the different seasons and having parties. Learning the vowel and consonant sounds was fun, too. They each planted an orchid for their mother, it was lots of fun watching them grow.

The students down at the new elementary building have done very well in their school work and have enjoyed this year very much. They are all looking forward to more happy years of school life in Quincy.

Kindergarten

The second grade wrote letters to Santa Claus this year (Bet he was surprised to see how many things they wanted!) The children took their letters down to Allen's Post Office and mailed them. And besides being fun; walking through the snow and getting out of the classroom, they learned something. They found out how mail is sorted, put in bags to be sent on a train or mail trucks, and how mail is packed to be taken by the Rural Mail Carrier. They also learned how packages going by mail are weighed to find how much it will cost to send them. The children learned many things in just a short period of time.

Santa answered their letters the very next week, and the children now know that Santa uses the post office, too.

Another project was the Basic Seven Foods. The children found pictures of foods, in magazines and books, and brought them to school to be grouped into different classifications and be put into a Food Scrap Book. This helped them to know what they should eat, and why they should eat it. They enjoyed this school year very much.

The students in the new elementary building at Quincy have been very busy indeed. All the children have worked hard so that they will make good students next year.

Standing: Joe Daniels V-Pres., John Toth, Mr. Van Landingham, Ken Thomas, Leo Matz, Bob Coates, Doug Condra Reporter.

Student Council

The students and faculty of Q.H.S. are very happy to have the Student Council functioning properly again.

The new constitution was drawn up under the able hands of Doug Condra and his committee, with the help of Mr. Van and Mrs. Volkert, of course. The new constitution calls for many new committees; the Devotional Committee is a very good example; this committee gave us the wonderful assemblies we had during Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter.

The council paved the way for beginning of an Inter-School Council League. The plans made for this are working out beautifully and it should be into full swing next year.

All in all, the council has been very active and everyone is proud that it is back and working so well.

Mr. Van Landingham, Dan Ludlow, pres., Mrs. Volkert, Marian King, tres., Doug Condra, Reporter, Carlene Knisely, secretary, Joe Daniels, v.p.

Student Court

The court is composed of: A Judge, a Chief of Police of the High School, who remain the two non-voting members, a bailiff, to keep the records, five permanent members, and two alternating members. To clarify the last two members, we must say that these two are selected from a different class each week, and that they remain a part of the court only during the session they attend. They are picked by the class officers of the respective classes. These two vacancies are not to be filled by the same person any more than once a semester. The addition of the two extra members is to allow the entire school to know just how the court operates, through the individual students who participate.

To promote better citizenship, develop leadership, and to correct small injurious injustices to the school's name as well as helping to build the school's reputation as an educational institution, are just some of the purposes for the court. Although these are not the only ones. There are many more that are to numerous to mention.

We would also like to state that these people who serve on the court are picked because of their ability to be fair and honest.

We do not think they should be looked upon as a group of policemen and police women, but as citizens protecting the rights of others, and fulfilling their obligation of holding public office.

Jr. High Student Council: Jackie Shook, Bob Anderson, Mary Lou Blaker, Gary Parker, Larry Wilcox-Pres., Carol Murdock, Judy Harter, Jacquie Huffer, Rosemary Vincent, Billy Todd, Bruce Himebaugh, Standing Mr. Bard.

Junior High Student Council

The Junior High Student Council is made up of two representatives from each seventh and eighth grade home room section.

Mr. Bard, a Junior High Social Studies teacher was selected as our adviser.

We elected for our President, Larry Wilcox; Vice President, Gary Parker; Secretary and Treasurer, Carol Murdock; and Reporter, Jackie Shook.

This year during Christmas time we sold Christmas seals.

We are just a small group of Junior High students representing our classes and trying to be like the Senior High Student Council.

Just recently we organized a Junior High Dance Club for Junior High students only. Mr. Condon, a Junior High English teacher, is the instructor for this.

Chorus

"Listen, the chorus is practicing again this noon." This was said many times this past year, for the chorus had to practice at noon many times. You see not everyone who wanted to sing could take chorus during first hour in the morning.

The extra rehearsals paid off in the long run. Remember the Christmas assembly, how much the chorus added to the spirit of things?

You couldn't have a Spring Festival without the chorus all decked out in their finery. Not only did they look nice but they sang a little better than usual too.

Thank you chorus, we will be listening for you again.

Oriole "A" Band

Make way for one of the finest class C bands in the state: the Quincy High A Band. The band, under the direction of Mr. Hause, has far surpassed its previous records.

This year the band started off with the wonderful homecoming show, and a trip to the University of Michigan where they participated in the annual Band Day. The next thing on the agenda was the marching contest at Vicksburg, where the band really wowed the spectators with their precision marching and fancy high-stepping. They brought back another first rating to add to their collection. This was in addition to the fine half-time shows at the football games. Neither rain, sleet, nor snow, can stop the Oriole Band from marching at halftime.

The next thing was concert work. Donna Grill was featured on the piano at the winter concert.

The Solo & Ensemble Festival was another activity which many of the band members took part in. They came back with a good record there, too.

During the winter months, six of the members were chosen to play in the All-Stars Band; two days and one night at Three Rivers. This is a lot of hard work, as any one of the six can tell you; practicing hour after hour. But the finished product is well worth it.

To break the monotony of just playing horns all the time, the band decided to sell chocolate bars. Around the halls of Q. H. S. the warm order of chocolate drifted.

Then they traveled to Mendon for the district Band Festival. It seems they're always stealing the show; they came back with another first rating.

Playing an exchange concert with Cement City was a lot of fun. They held a party for the Cement City Band, when they played at Q. H. S. while on tour. Wasn't it a lot of fun to have them stay overnight?

Preparing for the State Band Festival was slightly interrupted by the Spring Music Festival. Here the band put on formal clothes and played a beautiful concert.

After the State Festival, the next item on the agenda was the Holland Tulip Festival. This is always a lot of fun; the Oriole Tooters have brought back honors for years.

Oriole "B" Band

The Quincy High School Junior band as it is called, has been very busy this year. All the members are very proud to be in this good band.

During Homecoming this band presented itself very well along with the Senior Band.

Not to be out done by older and more experienced bandsmen, several band students participated in the Solo and Ensemble contest at Kalamazoo this last February.

The Spring Festival was another great night for the Junior Band.

Memorial Day is always warm but to be able to march through Quincy is really a thrill.

Row 3: Carol Smith, Gay Hawkins, Margaret Delaney, Sheila Taylor, William Lemke, Leon Parish, Tom Brockman, Robert Wilson, Michel Persails, Jeffery Bates.

Row 2: Sandra Green, Billy Armstrong, Beverly Anderson, Patty Adams, Nancy Lawrell, Robert Pierson, Dennis Higbee, Larry Stachfield, Gene Taylor.

Oriole Cadet Band

Here are your future A Band members, preparing themselves to fill the chairs of graduating high school students. They have a long, tough climb ahead of them, through the B Band and on up to their desired goal--the A Band.

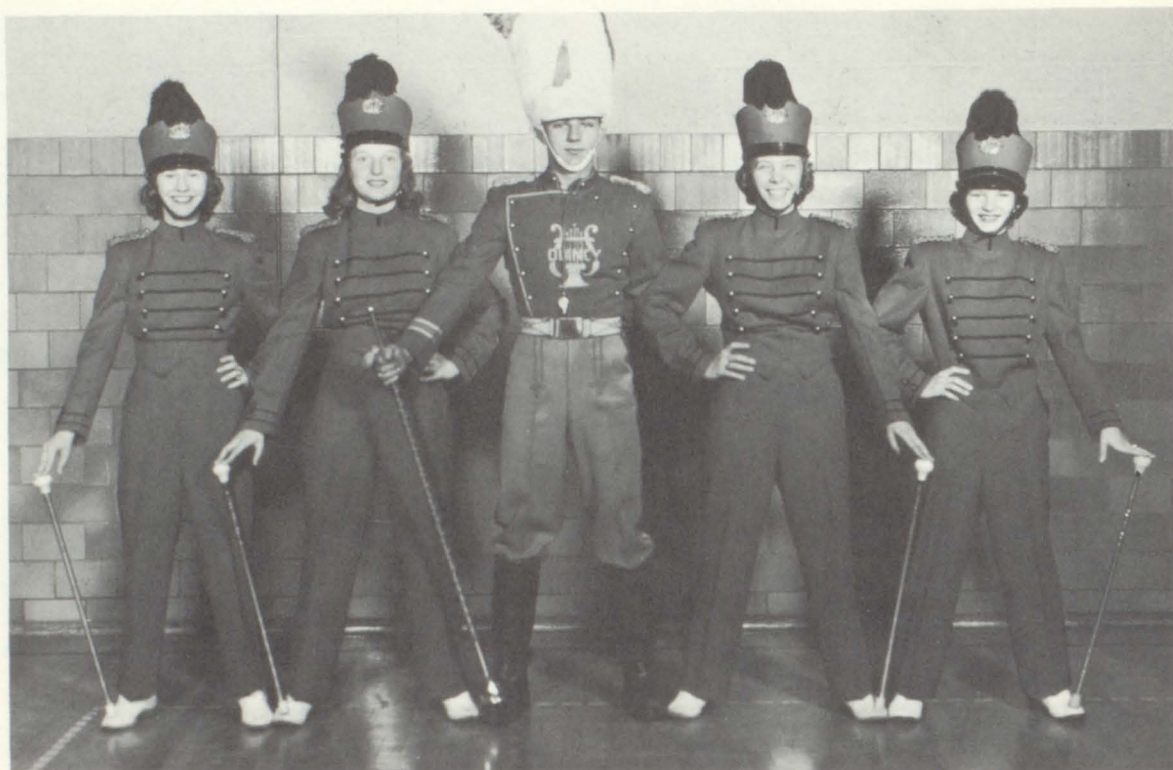

Here is a high school A Band in miniature. They have now about 20 members in their band and play very simple pieces. In a year or so they will reach their middle goal in B Band. There they will play harder numbers. Learning to march comes along in here some place. Finally after a long hard climb, they will reach the A Band and really be on their way.

If you think the Cadet Band isn't important, just consider the future. What happens when the present band members graduate? The answers lies in the Cadet Band.

Mr. Hause has a right to call them his "pride and joy". Before their first instructions on "which end to hang on to" they are totally unaware of what that shiny things is. When they leave the band room that first fateful day they have entered into the wonderful field of music. They have walked into a whole new world, the world of music.

They have made startling progress from the first squeaks and grunts to a beautiful (almost, anyway) song.

We hope every one of you makes it up the difficult ladder of music to the very top. Good luck!

Susan Smith, Lois Kelly, Harold Howell, Barbara Watson, Janice Brand.

"A" Band Majorettes

"Who is the drum major who always steps so high?" "Isn't he good?" I haven't seen anything like that for years." These were some of the comments made at the marching festival at Vicksburg. And do you know who they were talking about? Why, our own Harold Howell, naturally. Somehow he seems to step higher and strut better than other drum majors. All eyes were on him as he entered the field at Vicksburg.

He wasn't alone, either. Lois, Barb, Janice and Susan were right there, too. They make a very colorful sight in their flashy orange uniforms.

Somehow a band doesn't seem to have class if it doesn't have a peppy, up to the minute, bunch of majorettes. And that's just what the Oriole Band has! High-stepping, good looking, with plenty of bounce to the ounce; the "Front-Five", are the envy of a lot of bands in the territory. They haven't been at it very long, together, that is, but they are really going strong and all of them except Harold have another year or two to really get going.

While the rest of the band would rehearse music, the Front Five would work out a peppy routine. Sometimes they would practice just outside the window to make sure the routine and music were coordinated just right. Then when the two were put together it didn't take nearly as long.

Of course, one of the rules of being a majorette or drum major, is that during concert season you must play an instrument in the band. Our Front Five are good in this field, too. Janice is an up and coming clarinet player, Lois is a very essential horn player, Harold is one of the first cornets, and Barb holds first chair Saxophone, so they can't be called just "Show." There is a lot of work in doing both of these things.

Keep up the high-stepping girls, and lead the band onward and upward to bigger and better honors.

Kay Zimmerman, Pat Stempien, Charon Trall, Judy Baker, Joy Dove.

"B" Band Majorettes

"Gee, aren't the Senior Band Majorettes good. I wish I could be like them" Well, this girl found out where she can learn to do this; in the Quincy Junior Band.

Majorettes are a vital part of a band, and they must be good at their job, too. There is no better place to learn this fascinating work than with a group of fellow students who are striving for the same goal; to be in the Senior Band.

Being a majorette is a lot of fun but a lot of work is involved, too, for instance, just plain marching is hard but to strut like the majorettes have to is many times harder. Hard work or not the reward is great when the bystanders are pleased with the way you march.

Keep strutting girls and you will soon be on top or should we say in the lead.

Football Cheerleaders

Football cheerleaders have a hard job to do, but they always seem to get it done. For instance, during homecoming this year, they had to make posters, arrange for extra pep rallies and many other things to help keep the spirit high for this great event.

All during the season they have to work hard, they have to stand out in the cold and try to persuade half-frozen spectators to cheer.

The work may get a little tough at times but the effort put forth is well worth it when the results are received.

Judy Wibel, Kay Knowles, Sharon McDonald, Carol Kukuk.

Varsity Basketball Cheerleaders

Cheerleaders, what are cheerleaders? Are they just a bunch of girls out in front trying to show off? Not as we see it. They are a group of hard-working intelligent girls, working together for a cause. The cause being, to put some pep into the spectators and more spirit behind the players.

It is a very dull game without good, peppy, excited cheerleaders there to get some life into the affair.

The varsity basketball cheerleaders have done very well this year. They played a big part in getting the boys to the district tournaments and keeping them there for a while.

Thanks girls, we really appreciated having you out there working for us.

Janice Barton, Lois Kelly, Susan Smith, Madonna Bourne.

Reserve Basketball Cheerleaders

Here are the reserve cheerleaders whose duty it is to lead the cheering and to give confidence to our future team.

Cheerleaders are an important part of any ball game. They promote school spirit much needed in every school. Everyone enjoys seeing the cheerleaders out in front, "doing their stuff."

When these cheerleaders become varsity cheerleaders they will have had all the needed experience necessary in leading the yells with poise and confidence.

The cheerleaders add a very interesting sidelight to the games with their peppy yells and cute tricks. They are always coming up with something new and different to pep up the team and renew the interest.

Cheerleaders play an important part in encouraging the teams to go on in spite of staggering obstacles.

Yes, cheerleading is an important part of our sports section, and with no one to lead our yells, our games would lose a lot of their color and excitement.

Dan Ludlow, Dick Wendorf, Jim Rockel.

Girls' Basketball Cheerleaders

Something new was added to Quincy's school spirit this year. If you hadn't noticed, the pep sessions for the girl's games seemed to raise the roof a little higher than the regular pep sessions. The reason being that all the girls seemed to yell a little louder; because of the three handsome and spirited gentlemen in the center of the floor. They were, of course, none other than Dan, Dick, and Jim.

It seems the girls basketball team didn't have any regular cheerleaders so they rounded up three husky boy basketball players to help them out of their situation.

Not only did the new cheerleaders help the girls play better but the spectators came out in greater numbers, too.

The girls wish to thank you wonderful men for your support; and to say that we will be looking forward to you next season.

Good Luck boys and keep up the good work!

Camera Club

The Camera Club is made up of a group of students who are interested in photography either as a hobby or perhaps as a career.

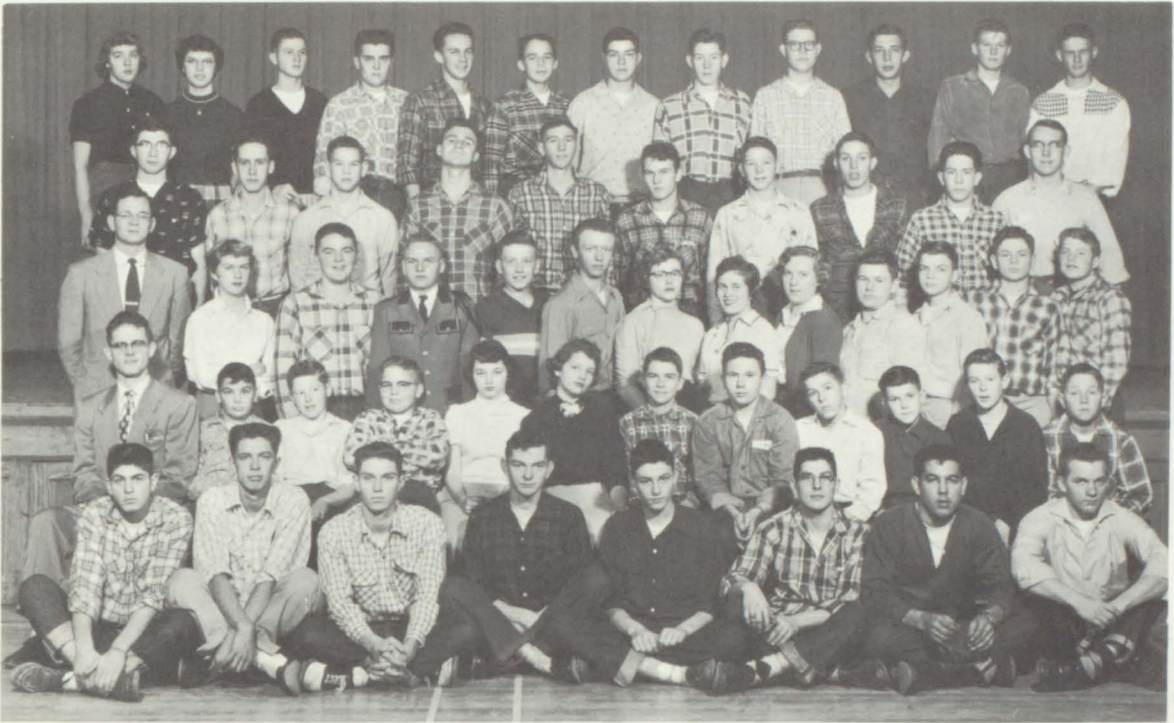

Mr. Cooper, the advisor of the club is an accomplished photographer. He always has pictures to show, either of a trip he has taken or pictures of school.

The club's membership has been quiet small compared to that of some of the other clubs, but the members have had fun and also learned something about photography.

Conservation Club

Boys and girls alike who are interested in fishing, hunting, and boating are included in the Conservation Club. There they learn how to handle, how to use all the equipment used in these different hobbies.

It is an educational club with a lot of fun in learning.

Debate Team

"Should the federal government guarantee college education to qualified high school graduates through grants-in-aid to colleges and universities?" That tongue-twister was the debate topic for the Q. H. S. Debate team this year.

The affirmative debaters were Barbara Watson, Bill Coates, Portia Brockman, and David Dunckel. Their opponents, the negative, were Marcia Van Doren, Mary Dawn Dobson, Georgianna Thompson, and Kenny Thomas. The debate team coach was Mr. Elenbaas.

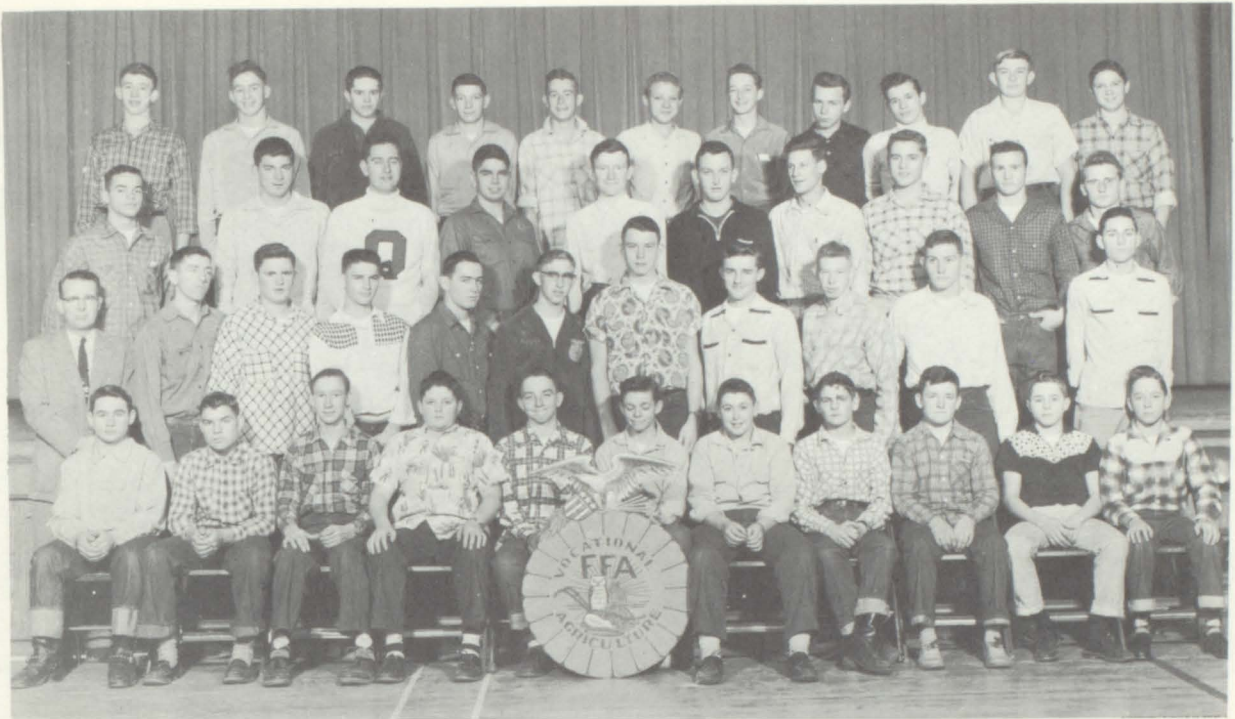

The team started its season with a discussion contest at Tecumseh and a practice meet with Coldwater. The first debate was with Union City at Quincy. Incidentally, Georgianna Thompson and Ken Thomas, negative, won their debate, it was the only victory for the debaters.

The second debate was at Berrien Springs. Then Morenci debaters came to Quincy to score two victories. To wind up the official season, the debaters traveled to Homer.

After the official season, the team gave additional debates at the rotary Club and P. T. A. meeting. The members are grateful to these clubs for the opportunity to practice before them.

This was the first team in Quincy for two years and most of the members had had very little speech work and none had ever debated on a team before. All the research and work was done on the member's own time with occasional practices during school and in the evening.

The debaters have received many fine compliments for their work and with the experience they have gained this year, hope to have a better win-loss record next year. The topic for next year deals with the the farm problem and the team will have about four months longer for preparation than they had this year.

Future Farmers of America

The F. F. A. was on the ball this year with fifty members. They carried out many activities and had a lot of field trips. One of the biggest moneymaking projects was the donkey basketball game against the faculty, which was a lot of fun.

Future Teachers of America

A trip to Ypsilanti, to visit Eastern Michigan College, was the highlight of the year for most of the members of the E. J. Jennings chapter of the Future Teachers of America. It was a very educational trip and a lot of fun, too.

They have been working on an inter-school Future Teachers League for quite a while, and now with the Council League a reality, there are more hopes of making a F. T. A. league possible.

Carrying out many projects during the year, the membership grew to thirty. Mr. and Mrs. Monk held a party for them at their home. An open-house for parents and teachers was one of the projects, and they also sponsored the packet pictures which were taken in the fall.

Future Nurses of America

The newly organized Future Nurses Club of Quincy High School is doing a very fine job for such a short beginning. The purpose of this club is to teach the girls interested in nursing as a career exactly what it is all about.

The officers of the new club are: President, Phyllis Leuck; Vice-President, Janice Fischer; Secretary, Rita Caskey; and Treasurer, Judy Shook.

Among the things the club has done this year are the installation of officers and at this meeting they received their Future Nurses Pins that they had earned.

They have had noon meeting with movies shown about nursing. Registered nurses from the area have talked to the club.

Field trips to visit places of interest to nurses are being planned soon.

Good luck, girls and keep up the good work.

Oriole Staff

A new and exciting experience was in store for nineteen students when they decided to take journalism. The students chose Marcia Van Doren as their editor, and worked very hard to get their paper out bi-weekly. There were a few times when the going got kind of rough, but the helping hands of Mr. Fletcher, and Mrs. Volkert and her advanced typing class always managed to pull them through.

The Oriole is also sent to other schools; this year, Mary Dawn Dobson, ex change editor, received papers from forty other schools; including a few colleges. These papers give the Oriole some new slants on headings for different columns, and also provided the jokes for "Laughin' Matter."

Despite having no experience what-so-ever in journalism, the students learned, and most of all learned from their mistakes. The paper never failed to come out on schedule, and the students newly-acquired skills boosted their ego. They were especially proud when they compared the "Quincy Oriole" with the papers of the other Little "C" Schools.

Oriole Annual Staff

One of the most challenging experiences for the green journalism students was the Oriole Annual. Everything was new to them, but in spite of this handicap, the proof of their effort is in your hands right now.

Portia Brockman was chosen as editor, and into her hands all the worry and heart-ache of an editor was shoved. Advertising was one of the dreaded assignments, but her staff made no bones about being on the job and getting it.

Dead lines are hard on the nerves, aren't they Portia? Mr. Fletcher shared the worries, and the light in Room 23 could be seen burning into the night.

And this is the fruit of their labor.

Safety Patrol

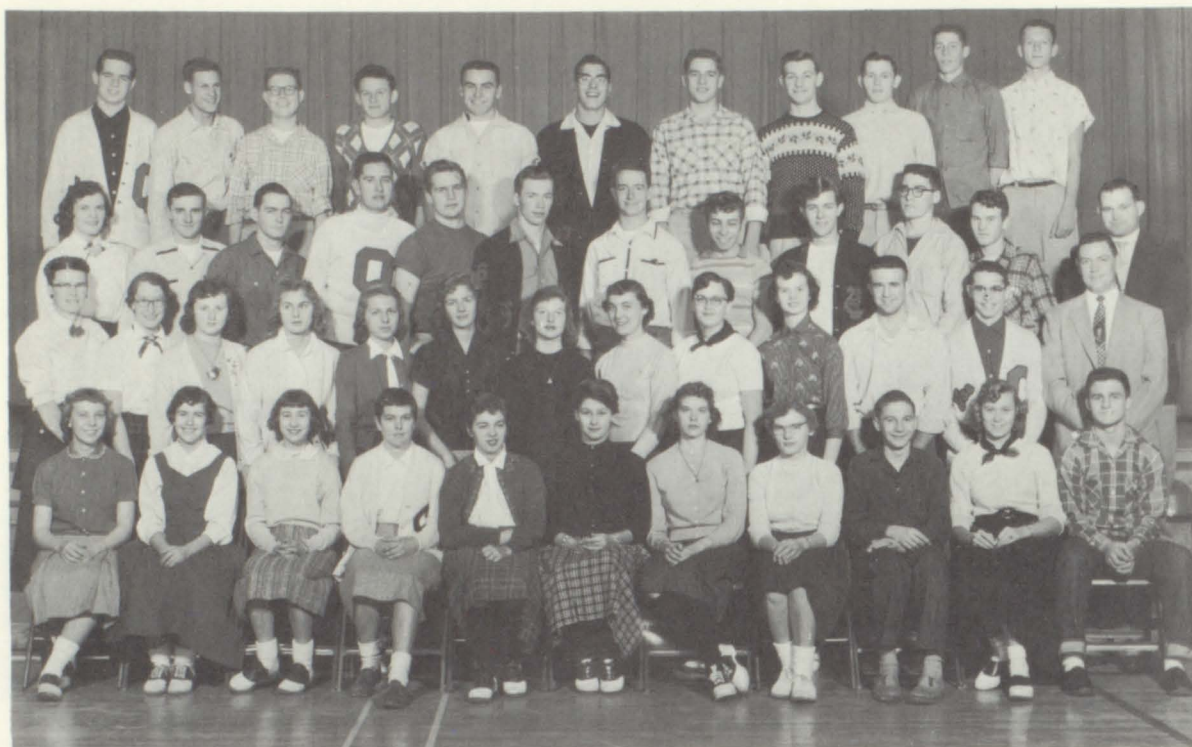

In the grade school a safety patrol is very important. It gives the people on the patrol a good chance for responsibility, and it gives the children a feeling of protection.

Well, the high school needed a safety patrol, too. They needed someone to remind them of their faults in the business of safety. So, along with the new Student Court a Senior High Safety Patrol was organized.

It works in much the same manner as the grade school patrol. They give warnings of wrong safety practices and can also give tickets or violation slips. They have their own safety court to take care of punishing the offenders.

The patrol is very good for the school and although everyone used to jay-walk all the time they find themselves taking their corners at the corners even when they are in a hurry.

Everyone is remembering to use the safety rules.

Q Club

The members of the "Q" Club of Quincy High School are boys and girls who have earned one varsity letter at Quincy.

Johanna Bowers, Marian King

The purposes of the Q Club are: to promote better sportsmanship on fields and courts, to promote better school spirit, to set up athletic codes and regulations for the school.

A constitution has been started for the club.

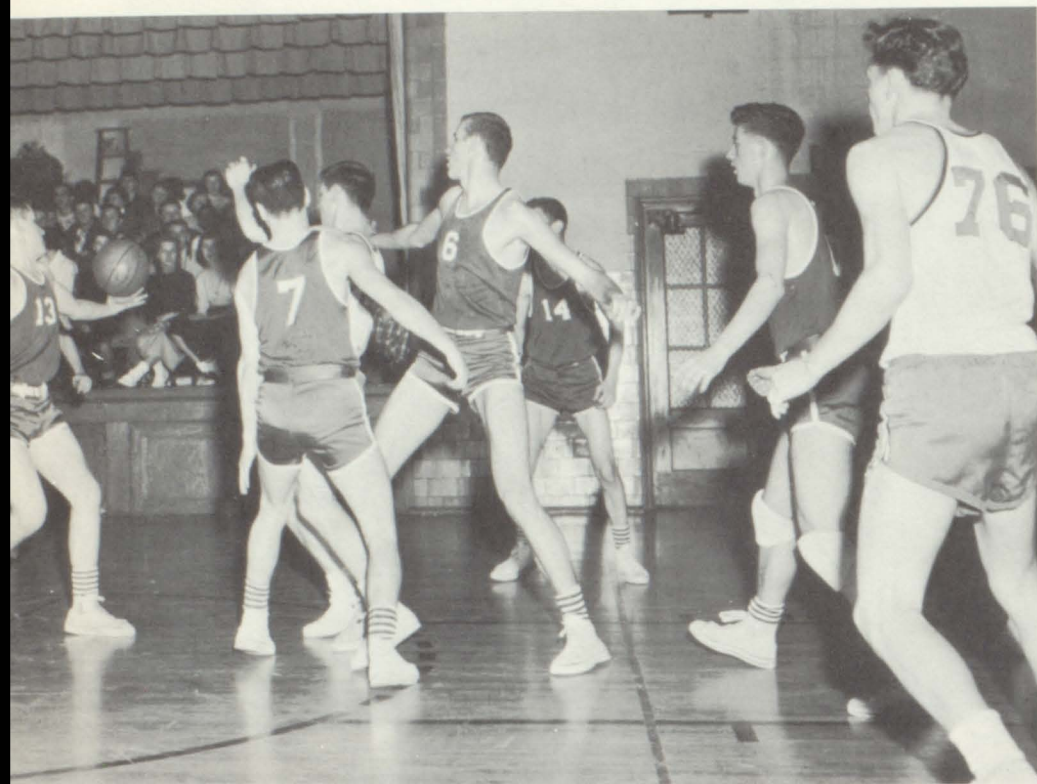

Some of the projects of the club this year have been to help with the taking of the pictures for the annual.

A big project that everyone noticed around the school this year was the purchase of the new varsity jackets. Almost all the members bought one.

Many projects are being planned for next year.

Football

We want a touchdown! Block that kick! These are some of the familiar yells heard around football season, to pep up our boys and let off a little steam ourselves.

Quincy, fall, Homecoming and football just naturally go together. Quincy just wouldn't be Quincy without football season.

Even though the boys get banged up a little they always come back for more. What a team! They just don't seem to think about anything but team-team-team. (Isn't the coach happy!)

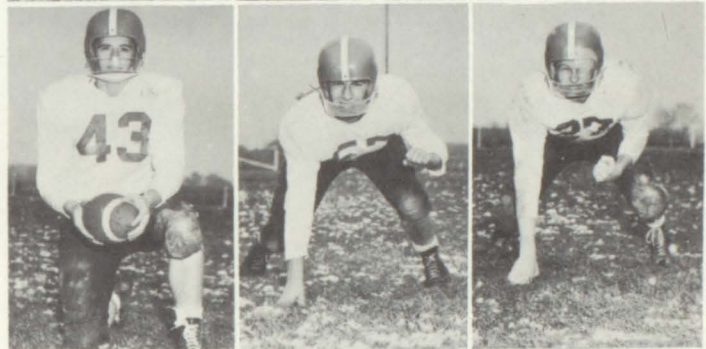

They all enjoy the games and wouldn't trade playing football for anything. They are proud of Quincy and fight hard to prove they are one of the best teams around. Quincy's football team lost only one game and tied one this year. They finished the season in second place in the little C Conference.

The lessons learned on a football field last for a long time. Football is where they learn to use their talents to promote Quincy's fine school.

Varsity Basketball

Here we are with the Varsity Basketball Team of Quincy High School. These boys are, of course, the best basketball players in the school. They have had to work hard to get to the top. Most of them started playing basketball when they were still in Junior high school, then they progressed to the reserve teams, finally reaching the top, the varsity team.

Although there weren't many games played at home this year because of the floor, they did quite well. Support for the team was not very good but even with the many handicaps the team encountered this year, they scored two victories at the tournaments which were greatly prized by all.

Good luck, boys, and we expect you to go all the way next year.

Reserve Basketball

Our reserve team is good and with the experience they have gained being on the reserve team, they should be hot-shots when they become varsity team members.

Reserve players are just what the name implies, reserve players. They are boys who are getting that last ounce of experience that really pays off in the long run. They are on the last rung of the ladder before they get to the very top, the varsity squad.

Reserve teams are really as important as varsity teams, because you must always have a good team behind to take the place of graduated teams.

Girls Basketball

Girls basketball teaches young girls teamwork and improves them physically. The girls enjoy it very much and even though they must follow girls rules they get just as much out of basketball as the boys do.

The sense of fair play, important to all people, young or old, is the highlight of their games, not to mention the fun they have.

They don't have a very big attendance at their games, but they go at it with all the vim and vigor of professionals. They practice like crazy, and nothing makes them feel as good as a solid catch and a strong toss in the center of the basket.

There never was a finer group of girls, nor a closer knit one, than a girls basketball team. After being knit together for perfect precision and timing by Mrs. Volkert, nothing could be better!

They learn good sportsmanship in losing as well as winning, and they have done very well indeed.

Junior Hi Basketball

Here we have our future varsity basketball teams. These boys are learning good sportsmanship and team work while they are still in junior high school. All the rules and regulations are taught to these boys and they play their games with these things in mind.

They may look a little awkward now, but in a few years, when they are the varsity teams, the experience now gained will be wisely used.

The lessons learned in basketball while they are still young will stay with them through their high school life and into their adult years ahead.

While learning is more important than winning for now, they did a good job at winning almost half of their games. Of course, Mr. Masters, the coach of this outfit is very proud of the progress they have made and is looking forward to seeing them on the high school teams soon.
