A Year of Changes

The 1963-1964 year has been a year of changes and new experiences not only in our school system, but also in the United States as a whole. The starting of school in September brought to us a new superintendent, new principal, and five new faculty members, as did John F. Kennedy's tragic death bring to us a new national leader in November.

Civil rights concerning our freedoms as citizens of this country has been the big issue in the United States. In a way civil rights has played a big part in our school too. At the beginning of the year the new administration issued student handbooks as our guide to freedoms. We have freedoms if we don't abuse them.

The school day ran on 50 minute periods, with three minutes between classes, and a 38 minute lunch hour. This year was also the first time a school newspaper was issued weekly.

Along with these other changes some new courses were added including a girls' gym class, a college English course, and a journalism and speech class.

This community has seen the largest graduating class in the history of U.C.H.S. receive their learning from a new building, new facilities, and a new type of education.

Another year, another class, other activities, will bring still more changes and improvements to our education.

STUDENT LIFE

Mrs. Gladys Warke, guidance counselor, works with students and helps them plan their classes during high school. The students may also sign out information on different occupations they are interested in.

During the year many tests are given the students to help them in the type of occupation they are suited for.

To help students choose a college, a "College Night" was held December 9, 1963, with Athens and Colon students also attending.

During "College Night" the students were able to talk with any three of the 11 college representatives and have any questions answered.

Malts, malts, and more malts, was one of the student council's projects for making money this past year

This year's student council, under the supervision of Mr. Singles, has had many activities.

Among their achievements are the installment of the malt machine in the snack bar, the running of the football and basketball concession stands, a donation to the cheerleaders, organization of dancing at noon hour, and establishment of a student council constitution.

This year, the Library Club has expanded its membership to 21 students. The club pays for some of the more popular books that students like to read. Members get actual library experience as they sign out books, file, process new books, and keep the library up to date. Many science books, which were purchased through National Defense Education Act, were added this year.

The Annual Staff, which was under the direction of Miss Mary Mathews this year, had a busy year, pasting pictures, making up captions and headlines, writing copy, and many other duties staff work requires. The 12 staff members worked after school, usually at least one night a week, and in January and February turned almost each night after school into a workshop period.

The 1964 annual sales, held from September 30 to November 8, reached the selling goal of 400 annuals. This was approximately 40 more annuals sold than last year.

Padded covers is a new feature added this year, as well as a separate academics section with a regular divider page headed Academics. Also, six more pages were added.

Other staff activities included a dance on November 15, and selling cover protectors.

Staff members worked after school and during Christmas vacation putting together the 1964 MAROON MEMORIES.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

Carol Gray, Patsy McRae, Sandi Eldred, Ruth Zarmstorf, Marcia Brown

More skits, new cheers, and many new ideas has been the result of cheerleading camp and the efforts of Miss Sanford, new cheerleading instructor. Dances put on by the girls have enabled them to purchase new uniforms and make money enough to help send some of the girls to cheerleading camp this summer.

Keep your hands behind the line boys.

Will it be track or baseball? This is the decision U.C.H.S. boys had to make this spring, as a new ruling went into effect. The new rule stated that a student may participate in only one spring sport, whereas in previous years, boys could go out for either or both track and baseball.

The team did a lot of traveling this year. They participated in the nation's largest track meet at Central Michigan, went to Berrien Springs, and traveled to other "Little C" schools, with their advisors Mr. Rice and Mr. Kendziorski. They also rebuilt the track.
