The Nancy De Graff Toll
Chapter N. A. R. 1924

From Mrs. L. Kate M. Loren Kohl

PREFACE.

Monroe Co. Historical Society

Most people consider the word preface as synonymous with bore, but few read them, even when they are appended to works of decided interest, and when they are often the only proper medium through which the author can make certain explanations which every thorough reader of books knows how to appreciate. In a preface it is proper to state purposes and design of the book, and sometimes a brief history of the enterprise, how it originated, and how progressed. It is also the proper place for such acknowledgments as the author may consider his helpers and authorities entitled to. Thus it will be perceived that a preface is really a necessary and legitimate institution, founded alike in the wants of authors, the desires of cotemporaries, and the demands of readers. But of all prefaces a directory preface is the driest, prosiest, most stereotyped, and most uncalled for. We unhesitatingly pronounce them a humbug. We advise our readers to read one such, ours for instance, and then never waste time in wading through another. They invariably tell a long yarn about the wants of the people, the difficulties of the enterprise, (the latter of which they have, of course, heroically overcome,) and they wind up with a grand flourish, in which the work is dedicated to the public, and commended like some poor, friendless, foundling child to the charity and indulgence of a cold-hearted world.

An honest, sensible directory preface would read something like this: "Gentlemen, we are directory men by profession; we came to your town and concluded it was big enough, and smart enough for a directory! The liberality of your merchants confirmed us in the belief. We have prepared the book; there were no great bug bears in the way; we have done our best to make it correct, but we are mightily afraid that there are some errors, which we trust are few and unimportant, and will not be discovered until after we have left town."

NO POISONOUS DRUG,

But a small instrument peculiarly unique, of great simplicity, and wonderful efficiency. Read some of the testimony on page 8.

County Rights in the State of Indiana, will be for Sale after January 1st, 1861.

The Machine sent free to any part of the country on receipt of price. Address

GEO. W. HAWES,
Box 502, Indianapolis, Indiana.

GREAT MORTALITY.—Perhaps all our readers are not aware that an ingenious invention has lately been made which promises to rid the world of these multitudinous little annoyances, flies, in a simple yet efficient manner. We have lately been shown a specimen, and witnessed its truly remarkable operations. Last evening twenty thousand flies were destroyed in less than five minutes, at a certain hotel in this city. We are aware that this is a stunning statement, but we are assured that several gentlemen of undoubted veracity are prepared to vouch for the truth of it. The machine, if so simple a contrivance can be termed such, is really a curiosity in its way, and must certainly supersede all other methods of exterminating the countless myriads of these troublesome insects—especially as it is free from the objections which pertain to other methods of fly-killing. Poisoning, besides being of little account, is always dangerous, and abominably filthy. For our part, we would rather take our chances of being devoured by flies than to see plates of poisoned insects lying about on the tables, etc. Everybody knows that the old-fashioned molasses method is a nuisance. But this Yankee contrivance, which is sold at the low price of $1, kills them all in a single night, and then the work is done for several days.

We are informed that the article is having a sale unparalleled in the history of cheap inventions. Mr. George W. Hawes, of this city, has purchased the right for the State of Indiana, and is disposing of a limited number of country rights. Persons wishing to invest in a good thing, at a small outlay of capital, should address Mr. G. W. Hawes, Indianapolis, Postoffice box 502. See advt. in to-day's paper.—Indiana Daily State Sentinel.

PREFACE.

Most people consider the word preface as synonymous with bore, but few read them, even when they are appended to works of decided interest, and when they are often the only proper medium through which the author can make certain explanations which every thorough reader of books knows how to appreciate. In a preface it is proper to state purposes and design of the book, and sometimes a brief history of the enterprise, how it originated, and how progressed. It is also the proper place for such acknowledgments as the author may consider his helpers and authorities entitled to. Thus it will be perceived that a preface is really a necessary and legitimate institution, founded alike in the wants of authors, the deserts of cotemporaries, and the demands of readers. But of all prefaces a directory preface is the driest, prosiest, most stereotyped, and most uncalled for. We unhesitatingly pronounce them a humbug. We advise our readers to read one such, ours for instance, and then never waste time in wading through another. They invariably tell a long yarn about the wants of the people, the difficulties of the enterprise, (the latter of which they have, of course, heroically overcome,) and they wind up with a grand flourish, in which the work is dedicated to the public, and commended like some poor, friendless, foundling child to the charity and indulgence of a cold-hearted world.

An honest, sensible directory preface would read something like this: "Gentlemen, we are directory men by profession; we came to your town and concluded it was big enough, and smart enough for a directory. The liberality of your merchants confirmed us in the belief. We have prepared the book; there were no great bug bears in the way; we have done our best to make it correct, but we are mightily afraid that there are some errors, which we trust are few and unimportant, and will not be discovered until after we have left town."

SOUTHERN MICHIGAN HOTEL,

Cor. Public Square and Chicago St.,
A. B. & H. DICKINSON,
PROPRIETORS.

Des This Hotel is one of the finest in the State; the Rooms are large and well ventilated. Good order will always be strictly observed, and servants will be polite and attentive.

From the proprietors' long experience in the business, they feel confident the House will be so conducted, as to meet the patronage of the public, and to make it one of the best in the State.

Omnibuses will be in attendance to convey passengers to and from the cars.

Liveries convenient to the House.
