Original Land Purchasers

Thomas S. AtLee, of the U.S. Land Office in Kalamazoo, Michigan drew these Plats and certified them on August 1, 1850. They show the land sold by the Federal Government on Land Patents (deeds), however Section 16 of each township, and Coldwater Sections 13, 14, 23, 24, Girard Section 19, and Union Section 24 were turned over by the Federal Government to the State of Michigan to sell, the proceeds to be used for educational purposes, and AtLee therefore leaves them blank.

The names of purchasers, their residence, and where they bought land was furnished to us by the Michigan State Archives in Lansing, and this alphabetical listing does include information on all lands in Branch County. Information on individual sales is shown in the publication 'Branch County, Michigan Original Land Purchasers' published by the Branch County Genealogical Society, 1996, and is available for purchase.

1858 Wall Map by Geil & Jones

Published in Philadelphia, this wall map is very rare. Two copies are known, one owned in Quincy, Michigan by Joe Normandin and the other at the National Archives in Washington, D.C. We used parts of each map to include in this atlas. There was no index with the original wall map.

1872 Atlas by C. O. Titus of Philadelphia

This atlas of Branch County was quite popular and a number of copies exist, however they are in poor shape and will not permit a great deal of handling. There was no index included with this atlas.

1894 Atlas by Atlas Publishing, Fort Wayne, Indiana

There are copies of this atlas available, however the paper is deteriorating, and there was no index with the original book.

1909 Wall Map by Clifton Chadwick, C.E., Hillsdale, Michigan

Three copies of this wall map are known, in different stages of repair. The plats as shown here are from two of the wall maps, one belonging to the Branch District Library, and the other the property of Ralph & Pat Tobalske of Girard. Mr. Chadwick indexed the names, and we show his index as printed.

1915 Standard Atlas by Geo. A. Ogle, Chicago, IL.

Probably the best of the atlases, most of the original books are losing pages as the bindings deteriorate. There was no index with the original book.

1929 Plat Book by W. W. Hixon & Co., Rockford, IL.

This plat book is included, showing the land ownership after 100 years. There are farms shown here in Branch County still owned in 1929 by the families that bought them from the government in the 1830's, and a few farms yet owned by the same families at the present time, 1996. This plat book is shown here with an index.

Original Land Purchases

Thomas S. Allen of the U.S. Land Office in Washington, Michigan drew these plans and ordered them in August, 1855. They show the land sold by the Federal Government on land patents (see), however Section 15 of each township, and Section 36 of 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36 were reserved by the Federal Government to the State of Michigan to sell, the proceeds to be used for educational purposes, and for as the State may see fit.
The names of purchasers, the sections and acres they bought, land was published in the Michigan State Archives in Lansing, and the original being now in the possession of the State of Michigan. Information on individual sales is shown in the Michigan State Archives, Michigan Original Land Patents, published by the Michigan State Geological Society, 1950, and is available for purchase.

BRANCH COUNTY, MICHIGAN.

THE territorial government of Michigan was ordained in 1805. The territory was admitted into the Union as a State in 1837. On the 29th day of October, 1829, the Legislative Council of Michigan passed an act forming the County of Branch, and at the same time twelve other counties comprising together a large portion of Southern Michigan. This was the first year of the administration of Andrew Jackson. John Branch of North Carolina was his Secretary of Navy, and for him the county was named. The counties of Berrien, Barry, Eaton and Ingham were also named for members of the Cabinet, Jackson for the president himself and Cass and Calhoun for distinguished democratic statesmen.

The formation of the county must be distinguished from its organization. The act of the council segregated these portions of the territory and indicated that they were of proper extent and form for counties. The organization did not necessarily, nor in fact in most instances, follow for a considerable time. They did not contain a sufficient number of inhabitants and in other respects were not in a condition for organization. Six days later, November 4, two of the number, St. Joseph and Cass, were organized by an act of the Legislative Council, and Branch, Kalamazoo, Barry and Eaton counties together with an immense uncut and unoccupied tract extending nearly to the Strait of Mackinac, were attached to St. Joseph county. That county may appropriately be called the mother of counties.

The next day, November 5, the council passed an act forming several new townships of great extent. Section fifth of the act provided "that the counties of Branch, Calhoun and Eaton and all the country lying north of the county of Eaton, which are attached to and form a part of the county of St. Joseph, shall form a township of the name of Green, and the first township meeting shall be held at the home of Jabez Bronson in said township."

It might seem difficult in such an immense township to find the home of Jabez Bronson, but in 1829 so few were the inhabitants, that although living far apart, they were generally known to each other. In fact "Jabe" Bronson, as he was called, and as he signed his name, provided food and drink for weary men and animals at his log tavern on Bronson prairie in Branch county.

The town meeting was held in the forepart of the year 1830, and a supervisor, town clerk, constable and collector were elected.

These officers entered upon the duties of their office, and the township of Green was fully organized and in working order early in June, 1830, with the log cabin of Jabez Bronson as the seat of government and its landlord dispensing justice and literature as well as food and fodder, for he was the first justice of the peace of the county appointed by the governor and the first postmaster receiving his appointment from President Jackson. The amount of taxes for the whole county of Branch for the year 1830, collected by John G. Richardson, collector, and turned over to Seth Dunham, supervisor, amounted to seven dollars and thirty-six cents, and the supervisor's commission on it was thirty-seven cents.

In the summer of 1830 the governor appointed three commissioners to locate the county seat of Branch county.

Abram F. Bolton owned the land adjoining and lying east of Coldwater river and north of the Chicago road. He satisfied the commissioners that his location was the right place for the county seat and they "stuck the stake" for the county buildings. This location of the county seat failed and the proceedings were void because the commissioners had neglected to take the oath of office. The next year new commissioners were appointed under the act of March 4 of that year. They came upon the ground and Mr. Bolton again attempted to convince them of the advantages of his property but others had more persuasive reasons and the "stake was stuck" in the forests on the west side of the west branch of Coldwater river, near the line between Sections 19 and 20 in the present township of Coldwater and being the location known as Branch.

That portion of the great territory constituting the town of Green, lying outside of the county of Branch, was from time to time formed into townships and thereafter Branch county formed one township which was still called the township of Green. In 1832 there were probably sixty voters within the limits of the county. The settlers, however, thought there were inhabitants enough to justify the division of the territory of the county into two townships. Accordingly on the 29th day of June, 1832, a legislative act was procured which divided the county into two equal parts by a north and south line. The eastern half was named the township of Coldwater and the act provided that the first election should be held at the house of Jabez Bronson. A few years later the name of Prairie river was exchanged to that of Bronson. As we have seen the county of Branch was formed by the act of Oct. 29, 1829. Some four years later the people began to move in the matter of county organization. There were then within its limits probably three hundred inhabitants and about seventy voters. Accordingly an act of the Legislative Council was obtained, approved February 1, 1833, and to take effect March 1 thereafter. Branch county therefore began its legal existence on the first day of March, 1833, and is now sixty years old.

The first election for the county was held the next month after the organization. Wm. McCarty was chosen for sheriff, Wales Adams, clerk, Seth Dunham, treasurer and register of deeds, and Peter Martin was appointed probate judge by the governor. The first deed recorded was made by John Allen to Seth Dunham, the register conveyed an undivided fourth of the Black Hawk mill property.

The first mortgage recorded was made by James E. Stuart, of Ypsilanti, to Abram F. Bolton, of Napoleon, Jackson county, to secure the payment of $1,200. This mortgage covered the tract of land upon which Mr. Bolton had hoped to locate the county seat and build a city.

The first certificate of marriage recorded sets forth that Robert J. Cross, J. P., on the 14th day of July, 1833, married Allen Stoddard, of Detroit, Michigan Territory, to Mary Estlow, of Branch county. The second certificate is that of the marriage of the clerk, Wales Adams, to Polly Waterman, both of Prairie River township. The first recorded marriage by a minister of the gospel was by Bishop Chase on Christmas day, 1834, "in the presence of a congregation assembled for Christian worship."

In less than ten years from the recording of the first certificate there is a record of two hundred and twenty-four certificates. As the territorial law in respect to recording marriage certificates was more lax than subsequent laws, there were undoubtedly many marriages of which there is no record. Considering the number of inhabitants the early settlers must have been kindly disposed to "marrying and giving in marriage."

Oct. 26, 1843, ten years after the first recorded marriage, the first divorce was granted. The parties were David M. Clark against Hannah Clark, and the solicitors for the complainant were Fuller & Gilbert. The wife made no defense. In the early days marriages were plenty and divorces few, latterly the marriage lists falling off and that of the divorcee increasing.

Prior to 1837 the courts for the county were held at the school house in Branch, and the prisoners were kept at the jail in St. Joseph county. In the summer of the year a log building two stories high, and thirty feet square, was built at Branch. It was called a jail but the lower part was used for that purpose and the upper half for a court room. This was the first and the only public building in the county while the county seat remained at Branch. During this year also the first newspapers in the county were published. The oldest by a few weeks is the Michigan Star issued at Branch, and the other the Coldwater Observer, published at Coldwater. This too was the year of great inflation and wild speculation. "Red Dog" and "Wild Cat" money abounded. Two banks of issue were started in the county, one at Branch and one at Coldwater. They soon collapsed. The fictitious prosperity of the year soon disappeared and the people left with floods of worthless paper upon their hands were in a worse financial condition than ever before. The county seat question agitated the county for several years, resulting at last in an act of the legislature authorizing the county commissioners to make a re-location. This board, consisting of Hiram Shouder of Union, Oliver D. Colvin of Kinderhook, and Hiram Gardner of Matteson, met in January 1842, and located the county seat at Coldwater. The same year the legislature abolished the system of county commissioners and re-established that of supervisors. Near the time of the removal of the county seat the jail at Branch was burned by a prisoner confined there, and until another place could be provided the Branch county prisoners were kept in the jail of St. Joseph county. In 1846 a jail costing about one thousand dollars was erected at Coldwater. Then came the struggle to build a court house, lasting nearly seven years. In the spring of 1847 a majority of twenty-seven was secured for the tax to build. The vote stood eight hundred and twenty-four in favor of the tax and seven hundred and ninety-seven against it. The contract for building was let for $5,000, and the building was erected in 1848 and was first occupied in December of that year. This structure remained until the present one was built. The present fine building was secured after even a longer contest than that over the first. In the spring of 1887 just forty years after the successful vote for the first a majority was secured for the new court house. The vote was again close, that for the loan being 2791 and that against, 2764, making a majority of 27, the exact majority that was obtained forty years before for the old court house. Forty years from the time the old house was completed the new one was finished and occupied. These forty years tell of the progress of the country in wealth and population. The vote was probably a full one at both periods, in 1847 it was 1,521, and in 1887 5,555. The cost of the old court house was $5,000, that of the new nearly $60,000, and yet the burden of building the latter was not as great as that of the former, considering the respective wealth and population of the county.

The Southern Railroad was completed to Hillsdale in 1843, and that outlet to the markets of the east was a great benefit to the county. The financial troubles which followed the disastrous speculative period of 1837 prevented the extension of the road across the county until 1851. The track was laid that year and in March, 1852, the cars ran through to Chicago. The event was one of great rejoicing and this thoroughfare through the county to the east and west brought a new supply of inhabitants of the best class from New York, New England and other states of the east, and added greatly to the prosperity of the county. This property continued unabated until the beginning of the great war of the rebellion. From the time the railroad was opened until the war, a period of about ten years, the population nearly doubled and the wealth increased in much larger proportion. The dangers and hardships of pioneer life were over, the wilderness was subdued and "blossomed like the rose;" happiness and contentment everywhere prevailed. Suddenly in the very midst of that peace and prosperity as if impelled by the hate of furies, the dark clouds of civil war rushed forth and obscured the whole sky. In the impending danger, the clearing of fields, the construction of highways and railways, the building of towns and villages was forgotten. From the bombardment of Sumpter to the surrender at Appomattox, the patriotic people of Branch County were almost exclusively devoted to the supervision of the rebellion.

Men, women and children seem to have thought of little else. It is believed that the records will show that few if any counties in the Union in proportion to population, sent a larger number of soldiers to the war.

They represented the county in every arm of the service and upon all the great battle-fields of the war.

The many brigades, regiments and batteries which they helped to form were distinguished for the skill and brilliancy of their officers and the daring bravery of their soldiers. The war record of the county is a proud one. Her citizen soldiers are sleeping in the soil of every Southern state; and every town and rural cemetery in the county marks their resting places. Memorial day since the war has been the great occasion of the county. It may be safely said that nowhere else has the day been so constantly observed and revered with so much sincere affection and devotion. The generations that lament the fallen heroes are fast passing away, but the living for all time will never cease to honor them.

Since the close of the war a large area of uncultivated land has been improved and added to the tillage of the county. In driving through the county fine school houses, dwellings and capacious barns are constantly rising to the vision of the traveler. The city of Coldwater and the villages of the county have had a wholesome growth and nowhere can more charming places of residence be found. In these handsome churches have been built, public libraries established and school buildings of beauty and comfort erected. The county is devoted mainly to agriculture. Intelligence is apparent in every part. The numerous granges and meetings of farmers with wives, sons and daughters are schools of instruction, composition and elocution. The high cultivation of the soil is only surpassed by the higher cultivation of the mind. The county was settled mainly by people from New England and New York and additions to the population not born on the soil are largely from the same sources. They have kept good the reputation for intelligence and culture which belong to the States from whence they came.

The county of Branch is the middle county of the seven counties forming the Southern tier of counties in the state. The Lake Shore Railway runs through the central townships, and the Michigan Central through the northern. The cities of Chicago, Detroit and Toledo are of quick and early access. When the pioneers first looked upon the landscape of the county it was a paradise of nature, the delight of the untutored children of the woods. Its surface was composed of beautiful prairies, veritable gardens of grasses and flowers, enclosed with magnificent forests, abounding with game, in every part lakes of deep, clear, pure water, fed by springs and teeming with a great variety of the finest fish.

The county, in addition to numerous lakes, is well watered by the St Joseph river in the north, the Coldwater river and its branches in the South and middle portions, and many creeks in other parts. In the forests were black walnut, oak, maple, beech, elm, ash, cherry, whitewood, and other varieties of wood of good size and of the finest quality. In the progress of cultivation, most of the timber has disappeared, but the county is still well wooded, and the lakes and streams well stocked with fish. The climate is healthful and its soil rich, readily cultivated and highly productive of a great variety of grains and fruits.

Other places in this great county of ours may be more desirable for some particular thing, but one who seeks a home in a beautiful climate, amid scenes of fine woods, rich fields and beautiful lakes and streams and among a happy, well-to-do, cultivated and moral people, will be wise if he follows the footsteps and rests in the home chosen by the brave and intelligent pioneers of Branch county.

The first school in Branch county, and the first between Lenawee county and White Pigeon, was taught in a log tenement at Bronson Prairie, in the winter of 1830 and 1831 by Columbia Lancaster. Mr. Lancaster afterwards became an able lawyer. He practiced law at White Pigeon, built the first log house at Centerville in 1831, was president of the St. Joseph's County Bank, and a member of the legislature in 1838. He went to Oregon in 1845, was a delegate in congress from that territory in 1856, and prominently identified with the interest of that section of the Pacific coast.

Generally the first school houses were built in the present townships about the year 1836. They were rude log structures and in striking contrast to the present fine brick buildings in all parts of the county.

One was built at Waterhouse Corners in 1836. In Butler, Matteson, California and Noble in 1838, in Ovid in 1842 and in Quincy 1837. The first school in Quincy was established through the enterprise of Squire Alger, and Doctor Alger was one of the first pupils. The school building was located on section eight, and the first teacher was Rhoda Hewitt. Soon after a school house was built on the present railroad station grounds.

In 1837 the first school house was built in Union, in Alganssee in 1838, in Gilead and Sherwood in 1836 and in Batavia in 1835.

The first building in Coldwater was a rude, log structure located on the north side of the Chicago road a little east of the present residence of Mr. Glessner. It was built in 1833 or 1834. Cynthia Gloyd, who afterwards married David Waterman, was the first teacher. The next school building was the old, red school house located in the present first ward in rear of the Ellis blacksmith shop. Hon. Harvey Haynes taught school in this building in 1838 and it was then the only school in the township.

The first teachers in the county of whom we have any record were:

Miss Anna Roberts,
Mr. Charles M. Miner,
Miss Rhoda Hewitt,
" Sarah Beach,
" Cynthia Gloyd,
" Ella E. Hammond,
" Sarah Sargent,
Mr. Henry L. Hammond,
Miss Jane Woodard,
Mr. Sam'l Chase,
" James McKinley,
" Southworth,
" David Fonda,
" Harvey Haynes.

Such was the humble beginning of the present fine buildings in the city, village and school districts of the county, and of the excellent system of schools and institutions which now prevail. The intelligent pioneers coming from the Eastern states, when the common school system was interwoven with the fabrics of the state and having themselves enjoyed the benefit of such a system, were solicitous that their children should reap a like advantage; and so soon as a sufficient number of them could be gathered in a wide neighborhood, the rude but comfortable log house was built and a teacher engaged.

This early interest in schools and education has never flagged, but the schools of the county have been kept abreast with those of the most favored in the state.

The general government at an early day made liberal donations of the public lands for the support of the schools and the founding of a university. From the beginning the territorial and state legislators have advanced and guarded education with anxious care.

The university at Ann Arbor is now and for many years has been the leading university of all the great West.

The child, whether girl or boy, may be placed at the age of five years in the lowest primary grade, may be advanced from grade to grade, until graduation at the high school in the city of Coldwater, and thence, without further examination, may be entered at the University, and there graduate fully equipped for any position in the busy strife of the talented and cultured men and women of America, whether literary, scientific or professional.

The State Public School for dependent children, and which is a part of the common school system of the state is located at Coldwater.

It was organized in 1871. The Hon. C. D. Randall, then in the state senate, was the author of the original act. It is the only one of the kind existing under any government. It is neither penal nor reformatory, since children convicted of crime are not received, and those only of sound mind and body are admitted.

It is a home and school for the children of the poor—poverty and dependence only admitting them.

Such children as are now provided for by this noble charity, were formerly in the county poor houses, associated with adults—diseased, idiotic, insane and immoral—and there they often learned the first lessons in crime. The idea of the author of the act was to remove these innocent children guilty of no offense, already dependent upon the state for support, gather them in one school, giving them the benefit of almost parental care, and the advantage of a common school education. The merit of this system, aside from its humanity, lies largely in its preventive effects. Such children, now so happily provided for, almost inevitably became criminals, and at a much larger expense were maintained in prisons and reform schools—hence the system joins economy with humanity.

The buildings are on the cottage plan. There are eight cottages, with about thirty inmates each, making a present capacity of two hundred and forty. These cottages are essentially homes, presided over by a lady cottage manager, whose duties are those of a mother. All the children attend school in rooms in the main building and are taught the common English branches. Those of a suitable age are instructed in many industrial pursuits.

The institution is thoroughly equipped with a hospital and resident physician, a cottage for the little ones, and a kindergarten where the younger scholars are taught by a trained teacher. The play grounds are ample, and a happier family of children is seldom seen.

As opportunities occur homes are found for them, but even in those homes, they are still largely under the supervision of the institution. This is done through agents appointed by the state. Such agents must certify that the proposed home is a proper one, and in all indentures the right to take the child back is reserved, if in the opinion of the Board of Control, to do so is for the best interest of the child.

The whole career of the child, from the time it becomes a ward of the state until it reaches majority, is carefully watched, and all its interests jealously protected by its guardian, the state. The contracts placing them in homes, insures to them the same "good treatment as a member of the family," three months of schooling each year in the district school, and to be taught the occupation of the guardian.

This scheme has proved eminently successful and satisfactory to the legislature and people of the state.

Bates, daughter of A. S. and Mary A. Bates of Kinderhook, and commenced keeping house near the old home where they now reside. They have had born to them three children, two sons and one daughter. He is now the Supervisor of Bethel township. The subject of our sketch is a son of William T. Ammerman, who was born in Sussex Co., N. J., May 15, 1824. He came to Fulton Co., Ohio, in the year 1847, where he was married to Betsey Draper in 1850, coming to Michigan a few weeks later, first living in Ovid, moving two years later to Bethel where he resided until his death, March 12, 1893.

I., and moved to the state of New York in early manhood. His occupation was that of carpenter and millwright; his last years were spent in Lima, Livingston Co., New York, where he died April 14, 1828. The subject of this sketch was in his 9th year when his father died and left a family of six children in poor circumstances and a feeble wife and mother. It was by many hard struggles that the mother kept the children together. When grown to manhood, Alfred and his mother emigrated to Michigan in 1848, where he had a farm of eighty acres already purchased in the beautiful Tp. of Kinderhook where he has since resided adding more to his farm until now he has a very fine one and nice commodious buildings.

He is the father of twelve children, having been married three times. His first wife was Miss Mary Smith to whom he was married April 4th, 1852. This noble wife and mother was suddenly called home April 16, 1868, leaving him with six children, one child dying in infancy. His second wife was Jane M. Boyd, and after a short time again sold to Judge Gray, who conducted it until 1861, when it again changed hands, and Mr. F. B. Way became its owner, and the name was then changed to the Branch County Gazette. Mr. Way continued the publication of the paper until the close of the war, when Messrs. Breder & Burr became the owners of the plant. In 1868 the Gazette was purchased by the Republican and consolidated in that paper. On August 23, 1866, Major David Easton assumed control of the paper, and enlarged it to an eight-page publication with five columns to the page. Major Easton continued his publication until December, 1866, when Dr. D. P. Nichols purchased an interest in the Republican and became one of the editors. Messrs. Blackman, of Hillsdale, became the lessee and manager. Mr. Blackman conducted this paper until his death the year following, when his son, H. C. Blackman, became its editor and controlled the same until March, 1893. At this time, Mr. C. A. White assumed the management and has conducted it since that time. In politics the Sun was first started in the interest of the greenback party, under the second management it was changed to democratic, and again to prohibition, lastly it became the organ of the democracy of Branch county, in which faith it remains. Its growth was slow but healthy, increasing its circulation from seven hundred and twenty to about two thousand four hundred and six years. It, at one time, exceeded thirty-one hundred, but at the present time its circulation is in the neighborhood of twenty-five hundred. The paper is now well managed and ably edited and is considered one of the best democratic papers in southern Michigan.

Foster & Moore for two years when they were succeeded by Newell & Owen, who in turn were succeeded by Mr. C. W. Owen. In the spring of 1893, Mr. Owen disposed of a half interest to Major Turner, and the present proprietors are now Owen & Turner. This paper was started as a seven-column folio. Its growth was phenomenal from the start, attaining a circulation of over one thousand five hundred the first year of its existence, which has increased steadily until it now exceeds over two thousand five hundred among the best people of Branch county. NOTE ON RURAL MAIL ROUTES.

Each Rural Mail Route has been traced throughout its entire course by placing at every turn of each Route, and at intermediate points, a curved or straight line, with arrow, figure, and letters, to indicate, - the direction, - number of Route, - and postoffice from whence it starts respectively. Thus C-3→ signifies "R.F.D. Route No. 3, from Coldwater"; - and Br→ - Bronson Route No. 2 (With curve and arrow to indicate the change in direction).

One's address is noted by finding the R.F.D. Route which passes that person's residence. This is located by noting the letters and figure used in connection with either of the two nearest arrows which point along the road passing that dwelling.

If more than one Route will reach that place, mail sent in care of either Route will reach that place.

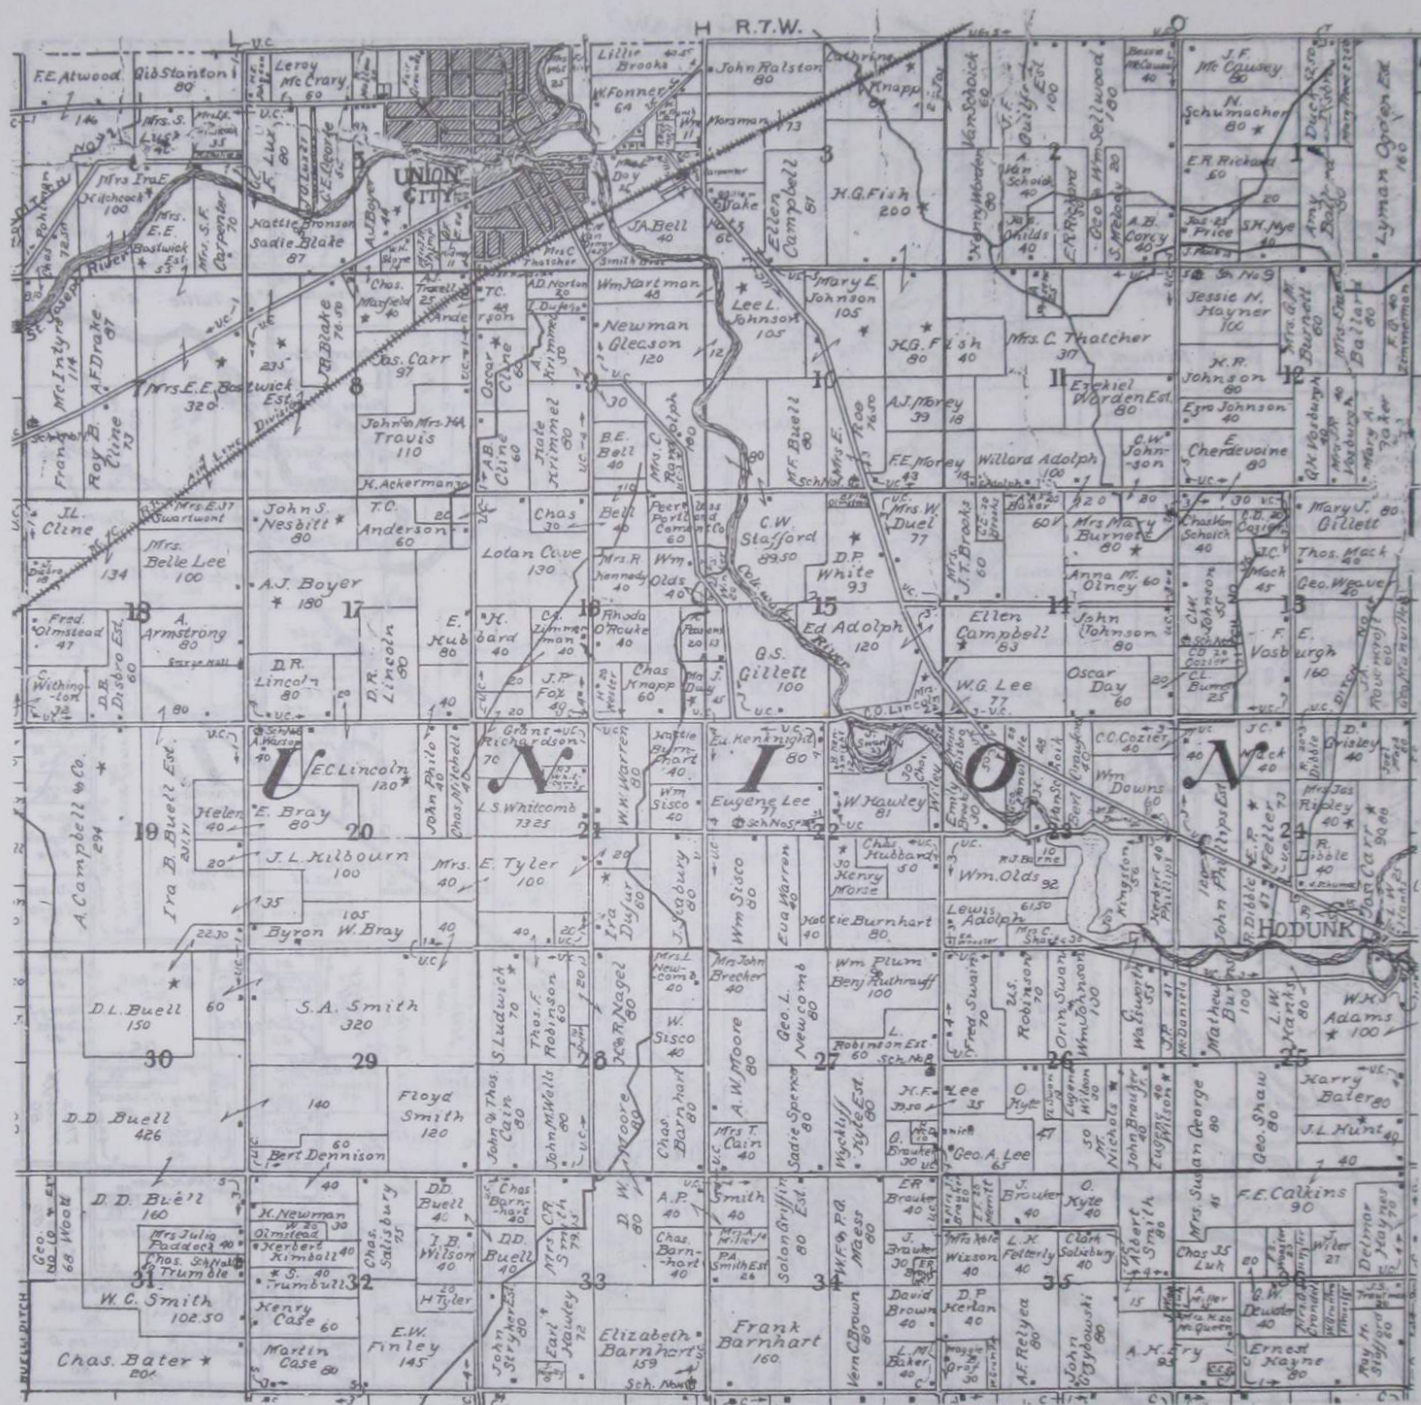

TOPOGRAPHY & ALTIMETERS

The following information is given for the purpose of enabling the user to obtain the most accurate results from the altimeter. It is assumed that the user has a good knowledge of the principles of trigonometry and the use of the altimeter. The altimeter is a simple instrument which gives the height of the observer above the level of the sea. It is used by measuring the angle of elevation of the sun or a star above the horizon. The height of the observer is then calculated from the angle of elevation and the distance from the observer to the horizon. The distance from the observer to the horizon is given by the radius of the earth divided by the cosine of the angle of elevation. The height of the observer is then calculated from the angle of elevation and the distance from the observer to the horizon. The height of the observer is then calculated from the angle of elevation and the distance from the observer to the horizon.

Foster, Col. Edgar A., Real Estate and Auctioneer, Coldwater. 1887.

Col. Foster occupies a prominent and influential position among the business men of the state. He resides in the beautiful city of Coldwater, Branch County, Mich. The city is surrounded by a fine, level country, with a high grade of fine farm buildings. The country is dotted with beautiful lakes, stocked with all kinds of fish, and here and there are large summer resorts. Our subject was born in Steuben County, Ind., April 12, 1867, and is a son of John T. Foster and Elouisa Foster. Both of his parents were born in 1840. In 1861 they moved on a farm in Otsego Township, Steuben County, Ind., where they have since resided continuously. Mr. and Mrs. John T. Foster raised a family of four boys; the eldest, Geo. H. Foster, died in 1890; John J. Foster, who lives on a farm in East Gilead, and Robert W. Foster, a farmer in Gilead Township. Our subject was married to a Miss Abbie E. Goodrich of Steuben County, Ind., March 24, 1887, and on April 6th of the same year moved on a farm in Gilead Township, and started his business career as a farmer. In 1891 he sold out and moved to the village of East Gilead, and engaged in the timber business, which he followed two years. At this time he commenced to buy and ship live stock, and continued to do so for some time, and during this time of his busy life he decided to become an auctioneer, and as it was his motto to do what you do, and do it well, he attended one of the very best auctioneer schools, from which he graduated, and at once began his auction work among his neighbors; but he soon was sought after, and commanded the best of commissions, until today he is known all over the country. He has a good memory and is quick to recognize a face. He is popular and has a smile for all. He is a man with good judgment, always keeping himself well posted on the value of all live stock, and he is a good judge of horses and is a good horseman. In the year 1903 he decided to go into the real estate business and from the very first deal he has made good. He is true and in fact, his people know what he is doing, and he is doing a good thing for his home city as he has made his friends. Without a doubt he has sold more property than any one man in the state. Our subject has represented the Michigan Mutual Cyclone and Wind Storm Insurance Company, with offices at Hastings, Mich., for a long time and three years ago he was chosen one of the fifteen directors from Branch and Hillsdale Counties. This company started thirty years ago with a membership of 159, carrying $163,710 insurance. Today it has more than 50,000 members with more than $120,000,000 insurance. He also represents some of the best fire insurance companies, and by attending strictly to business he has built up a good business in this line. But Col. Foster with all his busy life, always has time to lend a helping hand to any in need. He is a lover of children, who are frequent visitors at his office and home. His office is located in the Masonic block, and his residence at 256 W. Chicago street, Coldwater. Besides his other business, he takes pleasure in managing two fine farms, one of 120 acres, on sections 1 and 2, Gilead Township, where he keeps some law and only daughter make their home. He also has one grandson 20 months old, who is named after the colonel. The other farm of 120 acres is east of the State public school; here has a fine herd of Holstein Cattle, with a fine record. Our subject is noted for buying and repairing property in his home town, and thereby doing a good turn for his home city as well as himself. He is a member of No. 31, I. O. O. F., of Coldwater, and a member of No. 1907, P. O. E., which has a very large membership. He is also a granger, with membership in No. 17, Coldwater, Mich. It may be seen, by carefully reading this very brief record of our genial subject, that his has been and is a busy life; he is practically a self-made man, having gained his present honorable position by an honest endeavor and judicious management of his affairs—ever with the thought apparent in his mind "do unto others as you would be done by." "Going—Going—Gone—Sold."

Foster, R. J., Farmer, S. 11, T. Gilead, P. O. Bronson. 1887. Mr. Foster was born April 12, 1867, in Otsego Township, Steuben County, Indiana, in a log cabin. He lived in this same cabin until he was 16 years of age, when his father built a new house, where Edson lived until he was 20 years old. In 1887 Mr. Foster came to Gilead, working as a farm hand on the farm of S. C. Mabrey, at $17.00 per month. In 1888 he was employed on the Lacom farm at $18.00 per month. Then in 1889 Foster, the farm hand, moved his trunk to the E. G. Luce farm for the summer. But Edson, it seems, had not given all of his time and thoughts to his employers, because on Dec. 5, 1889, at the home of the bride's parents, John and Elizabeth Wilkins, occurred the marriage of Edson J. Foster and Almina M. Wilkins. In 1890 Mr. and Mrs. Foster moved on the Almond Graves farm at East Gilead, as a renter, but in 1891 they moved to Kinderhook, Mich., on the Boyd farm. On Aug. 4, 1891, a son was born to them, Paul J., their only child. By strict economy, and honest, steady toil, Edson saved enough to buy a small home of their own at West Kinderhook, Mich., in 1891, and Foster sold the farm at East Gilead, June 5, 1893, Mr. and Mrs. Foster sold their home at East Gilead, and moved to their new home in Township, January 5, 1895, their home with all of its contents burned to the ground, forcing him to build a new house in 1896. Edson steadily growing progress Mr. Foster has increased his farm to 191 acres of land, with two sets of buildings. Mr. Foster and wife reside in Steuben County, Ind.; they were born in 1840, and celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edson Foster in 1911. The subject of this sketch had three brothers, Col. Edgar A., a twin brother, is a resident of Coldwater, Mich., and is an auctioneer and real estate dealer. Robert W. is a farmer of East Gilead, Mich., and Geo. H., who died in 1890. The latter was professor in the high schools of Indiana for seven years. Paul J. Foster, son of Edson and Almina Foster, was united in marriage to Ruby B. Brook of Bethel Township, Branch County, on Dec. 23, 1914. Paul and Ruby live at home on his father's farm in East Gilead.

 Hoopwagner, Gabriel, Farmer, S. 18, T. Gilead, P. O. Bronson, 1864.
 Calbed Hoopwagner was born at Winfield, Tuscarawas County, Ohio, August 12, 1825. At an early age he began working on a farm where he acquired a sufficiency of this world's goods to enter the mercantile business. Not liking mercantile life he sold out and bought a tannery and followed this business for twelve years. He then sold out and did some traveling in the West looking for a farm. In September 1864 he with his family moved to Gilead, Branch County, Mich., and settled on the farm where he still resides. Having added to until he now owns 240 acres, one of the finest farms in Branch County. He has always been an active and life-long Democrat; voted for Pierce in 1848 and has never missed an election of any kind since. In 1852 he was married to Miss Sarah Smutz, of Tuscarawas County. To this union fourteen children were born, seven sons and seven daughters. It is one of his joys to think that he and seven sons voted for Wilson whom he considers the best of them all.
