

Newspaper:

Coldwater, Daily Reporter, December 4, 2019, page A3

New books coming to Bronson Library

Student library patrons will benefit from the $1,700 boost to the Bronson library book fund supported by the Friends of the Bronson Library and Modern Woodman. [ROSALIE CURRIER PHOTO]

By Rosalie Currier
rcurrier@sturgisjournal.com

The Friends of the Bronson Library recently held a Make a Difference Day event. They sold baked goods, specialty nuts and plants raising $885 for new library books.

Modern Woodman noticed the Friends of the Library hard work and provided another $885 through the organization's matching fund program.

Now the library has $1,700 for new titles.

This time of year, the book budget is spent, said Lynnell Eash, Bronson library director. The boost from the community support makes a big difference.

"I don't know what we'd do without our Friends," Eash said.

Diana Elkins, of Modern Woodman said, "The community truly came together to support a local need. That's support is what it's all about."

Modern Woodman sells life insurance, annuity and investment products.